Scotus Central Catholic
High School
Columbus, Nebraska

Faith is a journey along the uncharted paths of life. School life brings new twists and turns even if the path seems smooth and well regulated. From the doors of the commons we see the Shamrock Club and football squad laying the sod for beauty; the Scotus Mothers Club fitting the new uniforms for the girls; and the seniors leaving on the first closed retreat. Each month new trophies and awards are added to the trophy case. Here in the commons are the dances, vocation fairs, rummage sales and bake sales. This is the journey taking place at Scotus.

Social Studies And Religion

All of our teachers of 1967-1968, have striven to impart their knowledge to us. They have given of themselves-of their learning and their time. They have shared what they know and feel, so that we, too, may learn from their culture and experiences.

By involving us in concerts, science fairs and conferences, they have showed us that we live in a world of culture and yet of problems. Our teachers have opened our eyes to a nation full of progress, racial strife, increasing concern over war, and our responsibilities as American citizens.

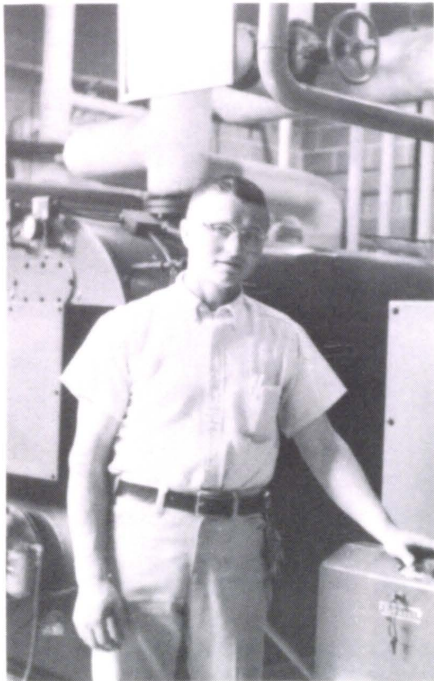

We extend our gratitude to these devoted teachers who have given us these advantages of a good Catholic education.

Lost, strayed, need information? Ask MRS. KEATING, the secretary, she has a smile and a solution to our needs or difficulties.

SENIORS

Retreat, Royalty Candidates, Work Day, And Graduation Hold Special Meaning For Seniors

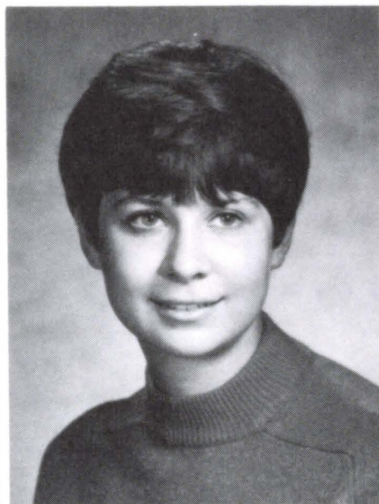

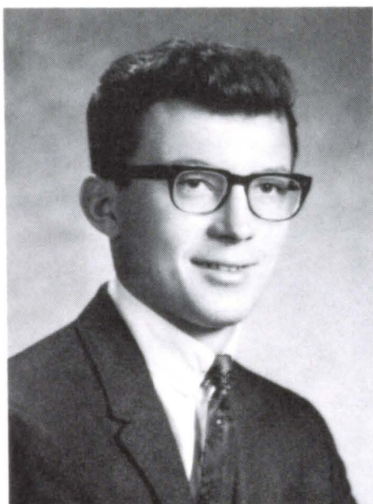

Faith Is An Endless List Of Goals, But To The Seniors, Faith Is . . .

Graduation and diplomas signify achievement for the senior. At the end of his high school career, many decisions must be made. The future will test the worth of the education which he has acquired and the senior must prove that he is worthy of the trust that the school and his teachers have placed in him. The scholarships and honors bestowed upon him are evidences of this faith. Other goals will be set by the graduate himself as new opportunities to advance present greater challenges.

Graduation Memories

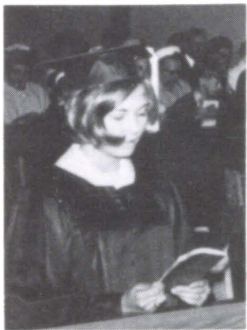

The Class of '68 has survived four years of growth as it lived through the destruction of old St. Bon's; a painful experience to those who loved her. Centralizing and organizing a new school, without a name even, was also a painful experience for them. Now however, as the class reviews these, its feelings toward the new school has changed to a sense of pride in the accomplishments that Scotus has achieved, especially in the year they as seniors were responsible to the school, to the teachers, and to themselves for leading the students.

Class "C" Champions

1967 was the year of football at Scotus. The Shamrocks began the season with eight returning lettermen and an entirely new coaching staff, headed by Claire Stramel and assisted by Jim Puetz and LaVerne Younger. Dropped to Class C at the beginning of the football campaign, the Irish fought hard against nine Class B opponents, compiling a 7-2-1 record. The OMAHA WORLD HERALD climaxed the season by naming Scotus as its Class C Champs.

Bill Kosch and Mark McLaughlin were named to the WORLD HERALD All-State Class C team. Bill, Mark, and Joe Blahak were named to the Nebraska Centennial All-Star team. These three with Frank Skorupa, George Liss, and Steve Weiser were named to the Catholic Conference All-Star team.

Basketball '67-68

Scotus Shamrocks battled Class B opponents throughout a tough season. The win-loss record showed a 5-17 performance. Although low in points, Scotus cagers possessed the necessary drive to win any game, a very desirable quality in any team.

The 1968 Scotus Staff presents several innovations in this year's annual. Barbara Gerber, art editor, designed the cover for the Year of Faith theme which the book conveys. Janet Ebel and Marilyn Mostek, editor and co-editor, have developed a new format. Diane Melliger, business manager, with the able assistance of three super-salesgirls, Judy Kaus, Sheryl Schaecher, and Anita Micek, financed the book. The duo tone end sheets add to the picture of the concelebrated Mass - symbol of the faith which binds Scotus Central Catholic students, teachers, parents and community. Personalized copies is a novelty. The combined efforts of the staff have produced a "great" for 1968.

Today Is The Tomorrow You Worried About Yesterday

The faith of the SCOTISTICS staff was put to a test on every occasion when the "tomorrow" they worried about--the monthly deadline of the SCOTISTICS arrived. (Why, oh why, do they wait for deadlines?) But, under the guidance and assistance of Mr. Jim Mimick the Journalism classes produced the SCOTUS NEWSPAPER.

May The Light Of Faith
Never Fail You!

God Never Closes A Door Without First Opening A Window.

Fellow-Students,

The Year of Faith has come to an end. Our school doors close.

1967-68 has been an eventful year and even as the doors close, windows are opening to admit the sunshine of new friends, new jobs, new schools to enter. Many of us will begin college and return to the books. Others will assume a different role; in an office, at home or away. New duties will occupy our thoughts and claim our attention and time.

Our teachers pried open the windows that acquainted us with the vistas of these future pursuits of knowledge or a gainful living. Now we walk out into the light and choose the paths that mathematics, science, literature, or government hold out to us, and for which our Catholic education has prepared us. We take our place in the ranks of the many others who are graduating with us in the exciting summer of 1968 and we find ourselves caught up in the great work of Christian unity-the challenge offered to us to accomplish in the Year of Faith.

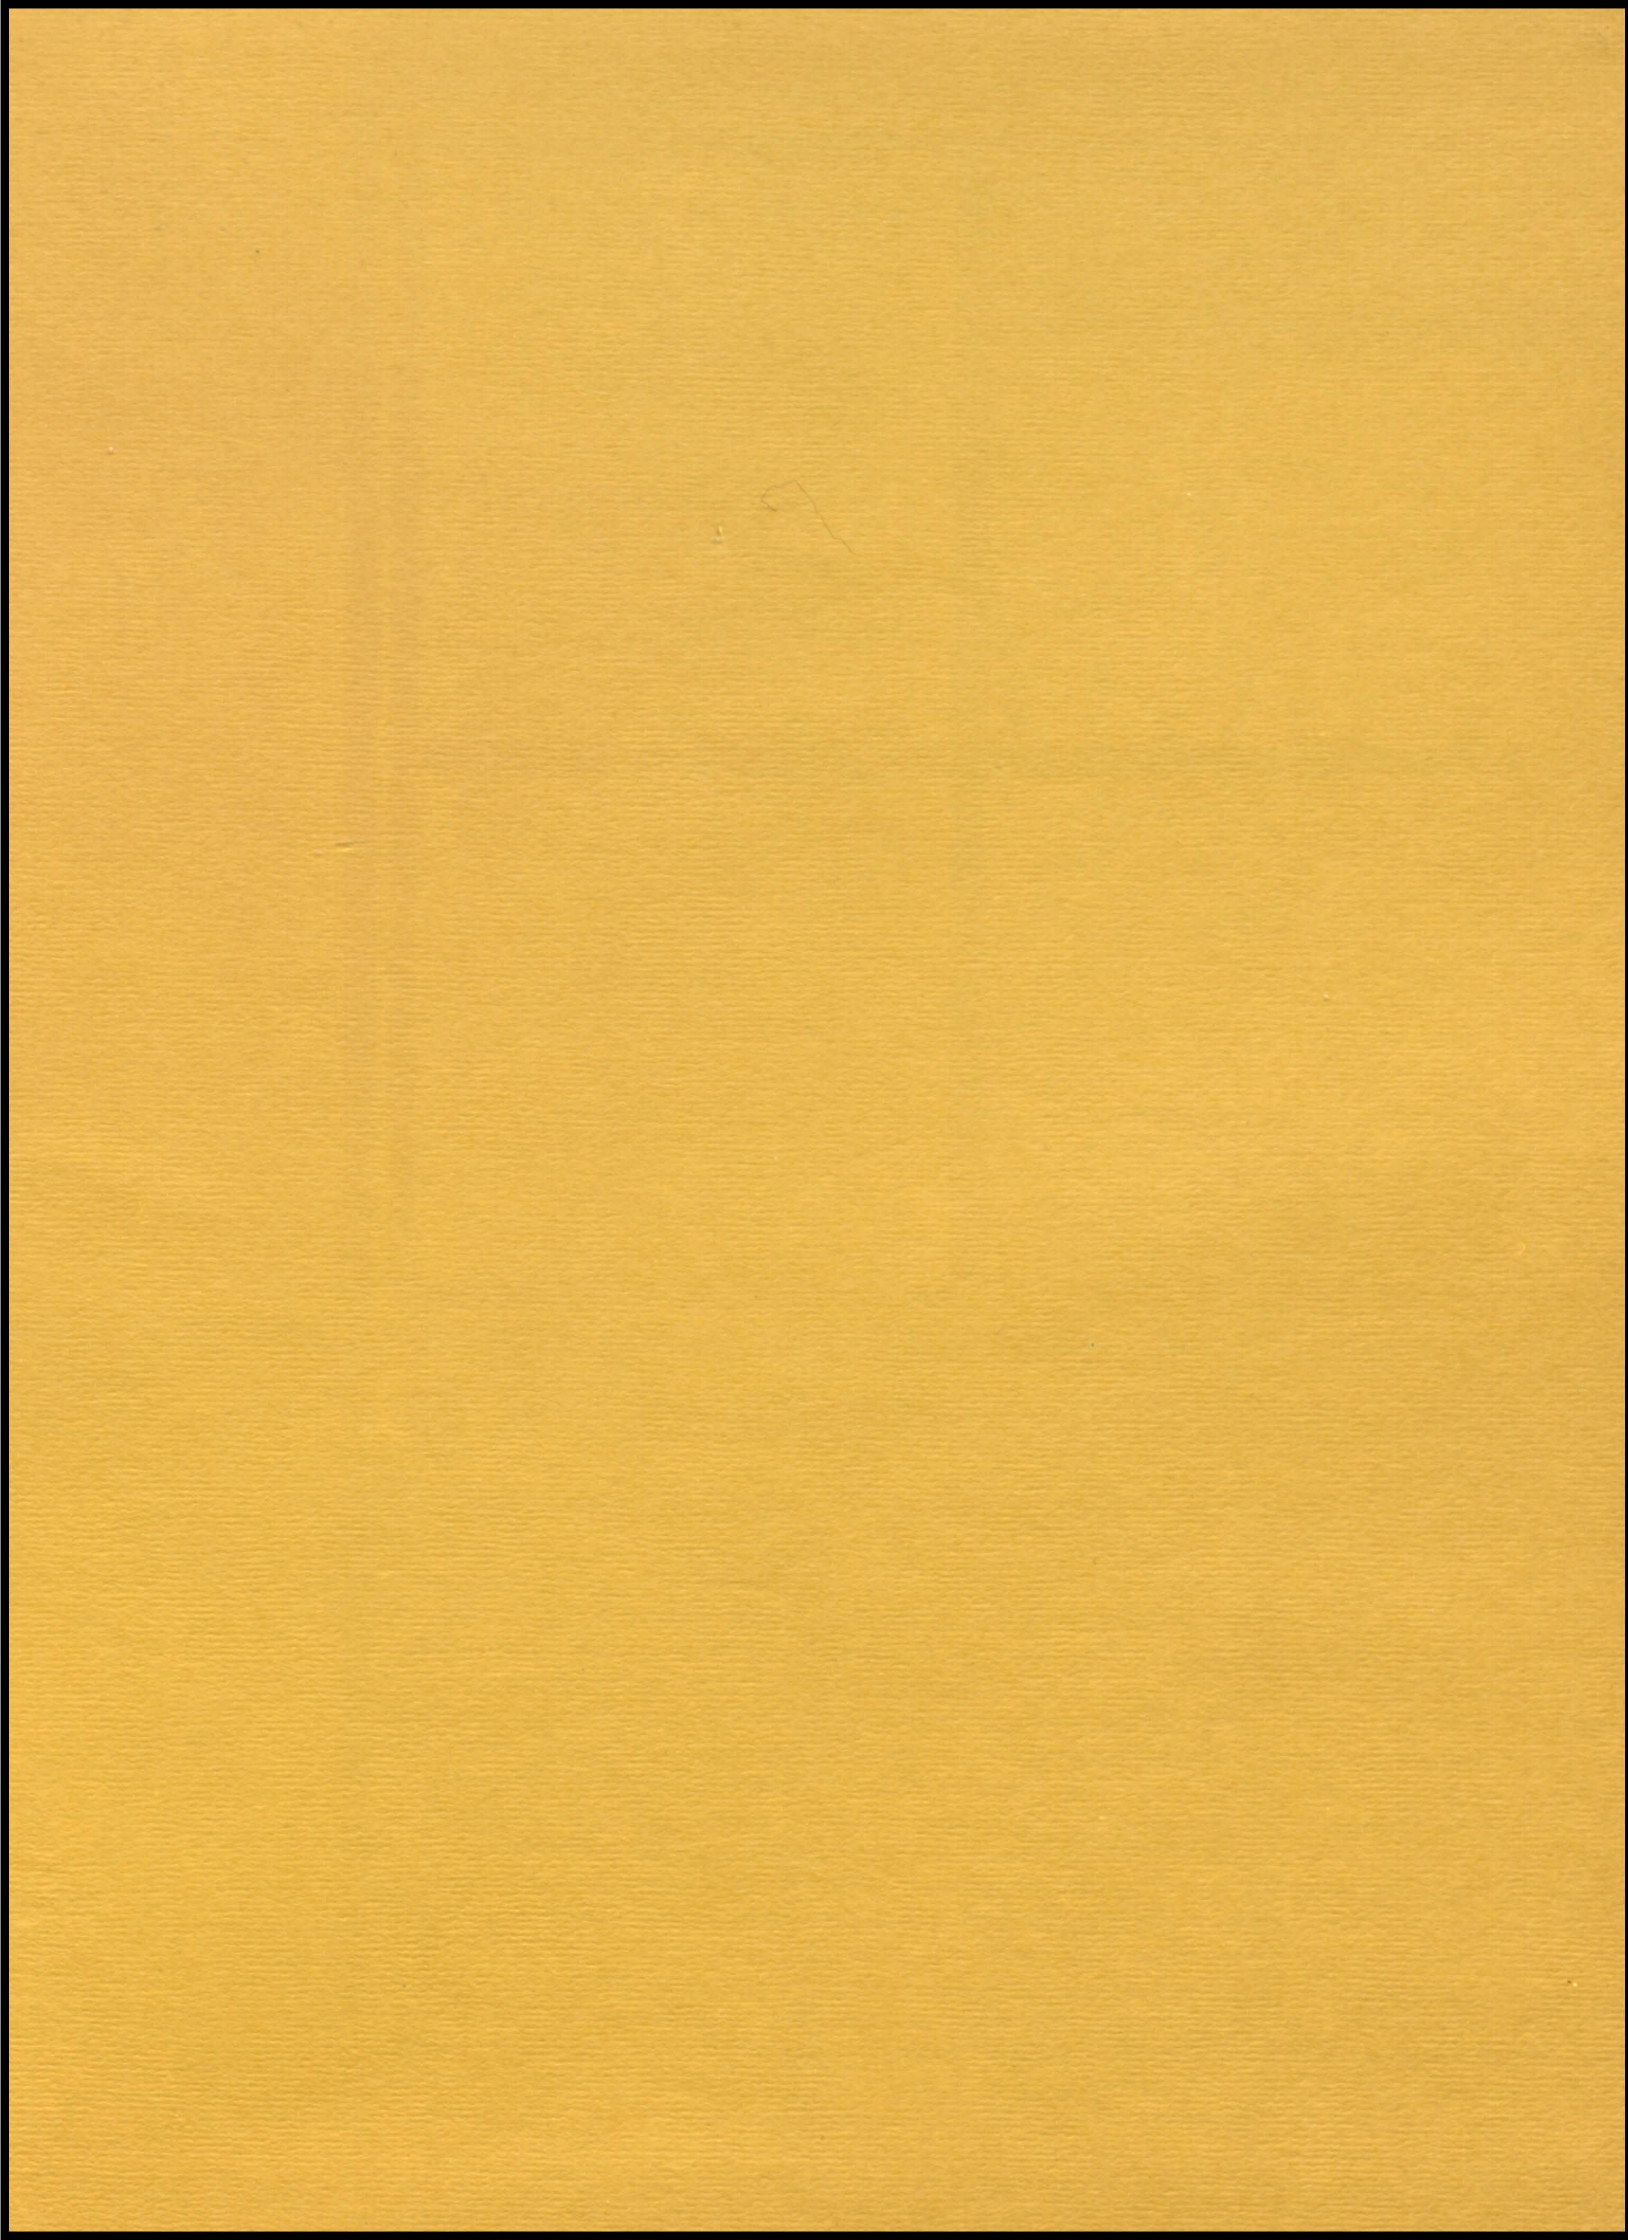

To our teachers, our parents, our pastors, and to all those who have helped in any way to keep our school functioning in a smooth way, while aiding us to stay healthy, happy and occupied, and finally, to all our classmates, too, for the accomplishments of our class, and of our school, we say a sincere - "Thank You."
