SCOTUS CENTRAL CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL EXPERIENCES A HAPPENING

Our Alma Mater is growing. The year 1968--1969 has witnessed a number of happenings that give evidence of growth. The new administration added a 2-1 ratio of lay representatives to the Board of Directors when two lay people from each parish were selected to work with their pastor on the policy-making of Scotus High. This advance injected new vigor to the educational plant and very soon it became apparent that Scotus was suffering from "growing pains". New courses like Art, Spanish and Physiology, widened its horizon and broadened its cultural offerings. First the CEF and then the SEF buttons gave signs of the involvement of a large group of parents, and prominent citizens in the efforts Scotus was making to keep alive and progress. Within the school, a new atmosphere developed as the students felt the pressures and sensed the problems that beset it. After a cold drink machine was added in the Commons, that place became the hub of many activities. Daily Mass began the day there and students gathered to share in the Eucharistic banquet and ask for God's blessing. But as the seniors were given the privilege of its use as a casual study hall, the Commons grew into a discussion center where warm friendships developed and the bigger lessons of life became the issues to discuss. Candy sales, student polls, and other meetings spiraled to the Commons. It was a cozy place to be and even if it was the place we went to register the place to go to receive the report card and on Graduation night, the place to return the cap and gown, to the seniors of 1969, the Commons was a place to grow, spiritually, physically and educationally.

Scotus Administration Advances Changing Policies In Education

SPONSORED BY
BECHER HOCKENBERGER CURRY CO.

Last Year — Uniforms. This Year — Sisters In New Garbs. Change — Growth.

It was not only the sight of the Sisters in their new garbs, but also the absence of the Franciscan habit in the office of the new superintendent that reflected change. Numerous as were the meetings with laymen, it is evident that Scotus is experiencing rapid growth. In our educational program were introduced art, spanish and a fuller music cultural program. In the many pictured moods we have tried to capture some of these involvements which take on larger meaning as we try to realize just what the administration is doing to expand the facilities and possibilities for us at Scotus. Father Meyer is new at Scotus, Sister Bernardis has watched St. Bon's grow into Scotus and shows the ability to grow and change as Scotus grows.

Industrial And Fine Arts

One of the most popular courses offered this year was the Art course. Besides it the Mechanical Drawing, Shorthand and Typing classes were well filled. Drama and Music departments presented public appearances to demonstrate the abilities developed in the fine arts.

LEFT: Mr. Cook, Mechanical Drawing

Mrs. Peck will give a test today.

Home Ec. And Mathematics

MRS. STRAMEL, home ec. teacher, checks a lesson with Sharon Kosiba. Sewing, cooking and child care are studied.

MR. EDISON, math instructor, smiles at the bundle of papers he has finished checking.

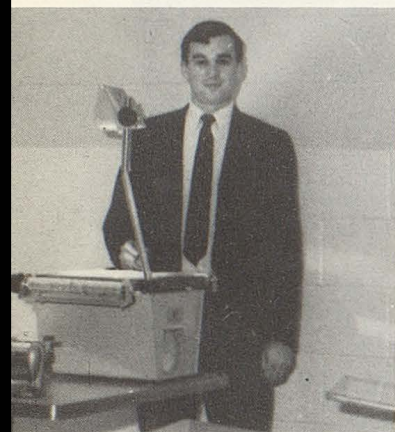

MR. HIGGINS, math and health, for second semester, lets Linda Ciecior explain her problem.

MRS. BERGLUND released her math and health classes at the end of the first semester to devote her full time to home duties in expectation of another "addition".

Science

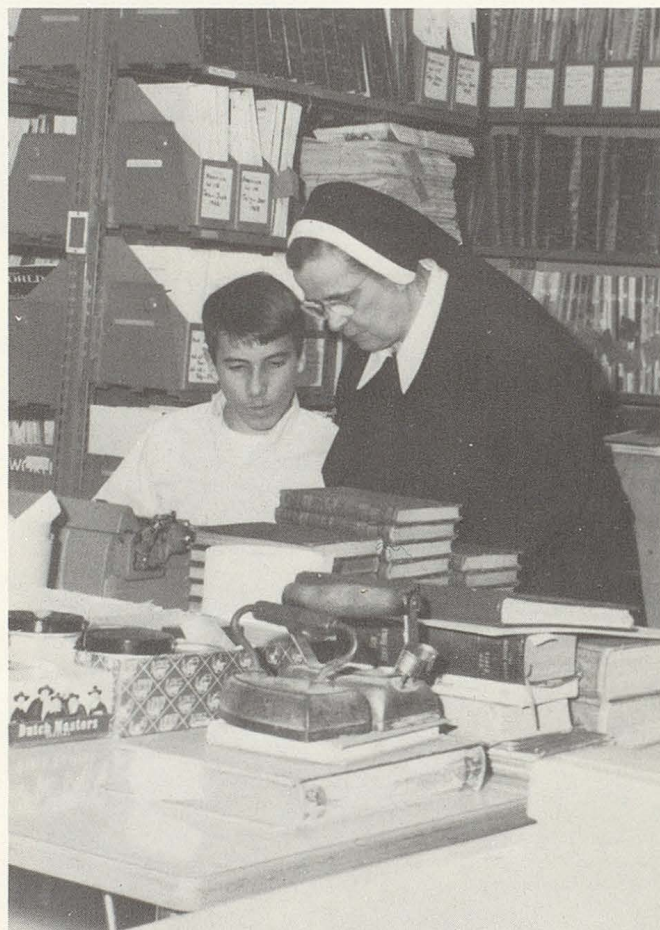

Sister Colette teaches Chemistry, and the Physical sciences. She also sponsors the JETS Club. Mr. Younger teaches Biology, P. E., and coaches the basketball. All students get individual help.

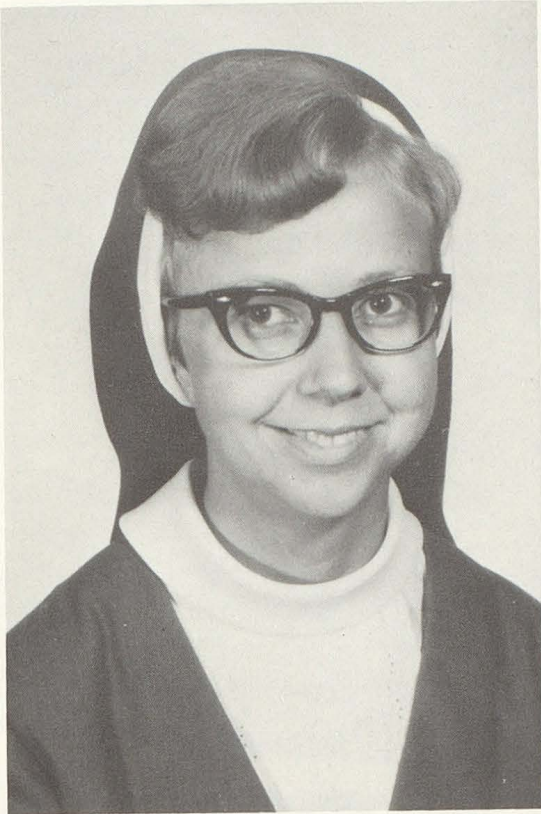

Mr. Higgins teaches the Advanced Physiology course offered to seniors.

Library Science

Student librarians learn the basics of library science from Sister Gerard, our librarian. Sister Gerard has expanded the library as Scotus grew and the number of volumes increased. Her work shows change through growth.

Business — Guidance

Sister Sharon taught bookkeeping, typing and shared guidance responsibilities with Mr. Stramel. She also directed the Pep Club.

Mr. Stramel combined guidance and coaching.

Social Studies

Mr. Pachta, Social Studies instructor, exercised his classes in the functions of government and provided experiences by participation in County Government Day and the Mock U.N. Assembly.

Mr. Puetz takes his World Geography classes to all parts of the world. His track teams do a lot of traveling too. This year he had a cross-country team jogging.

Toward Good Living

Mrs. Fletcher, Cafeteria Manager, has a smile for all.

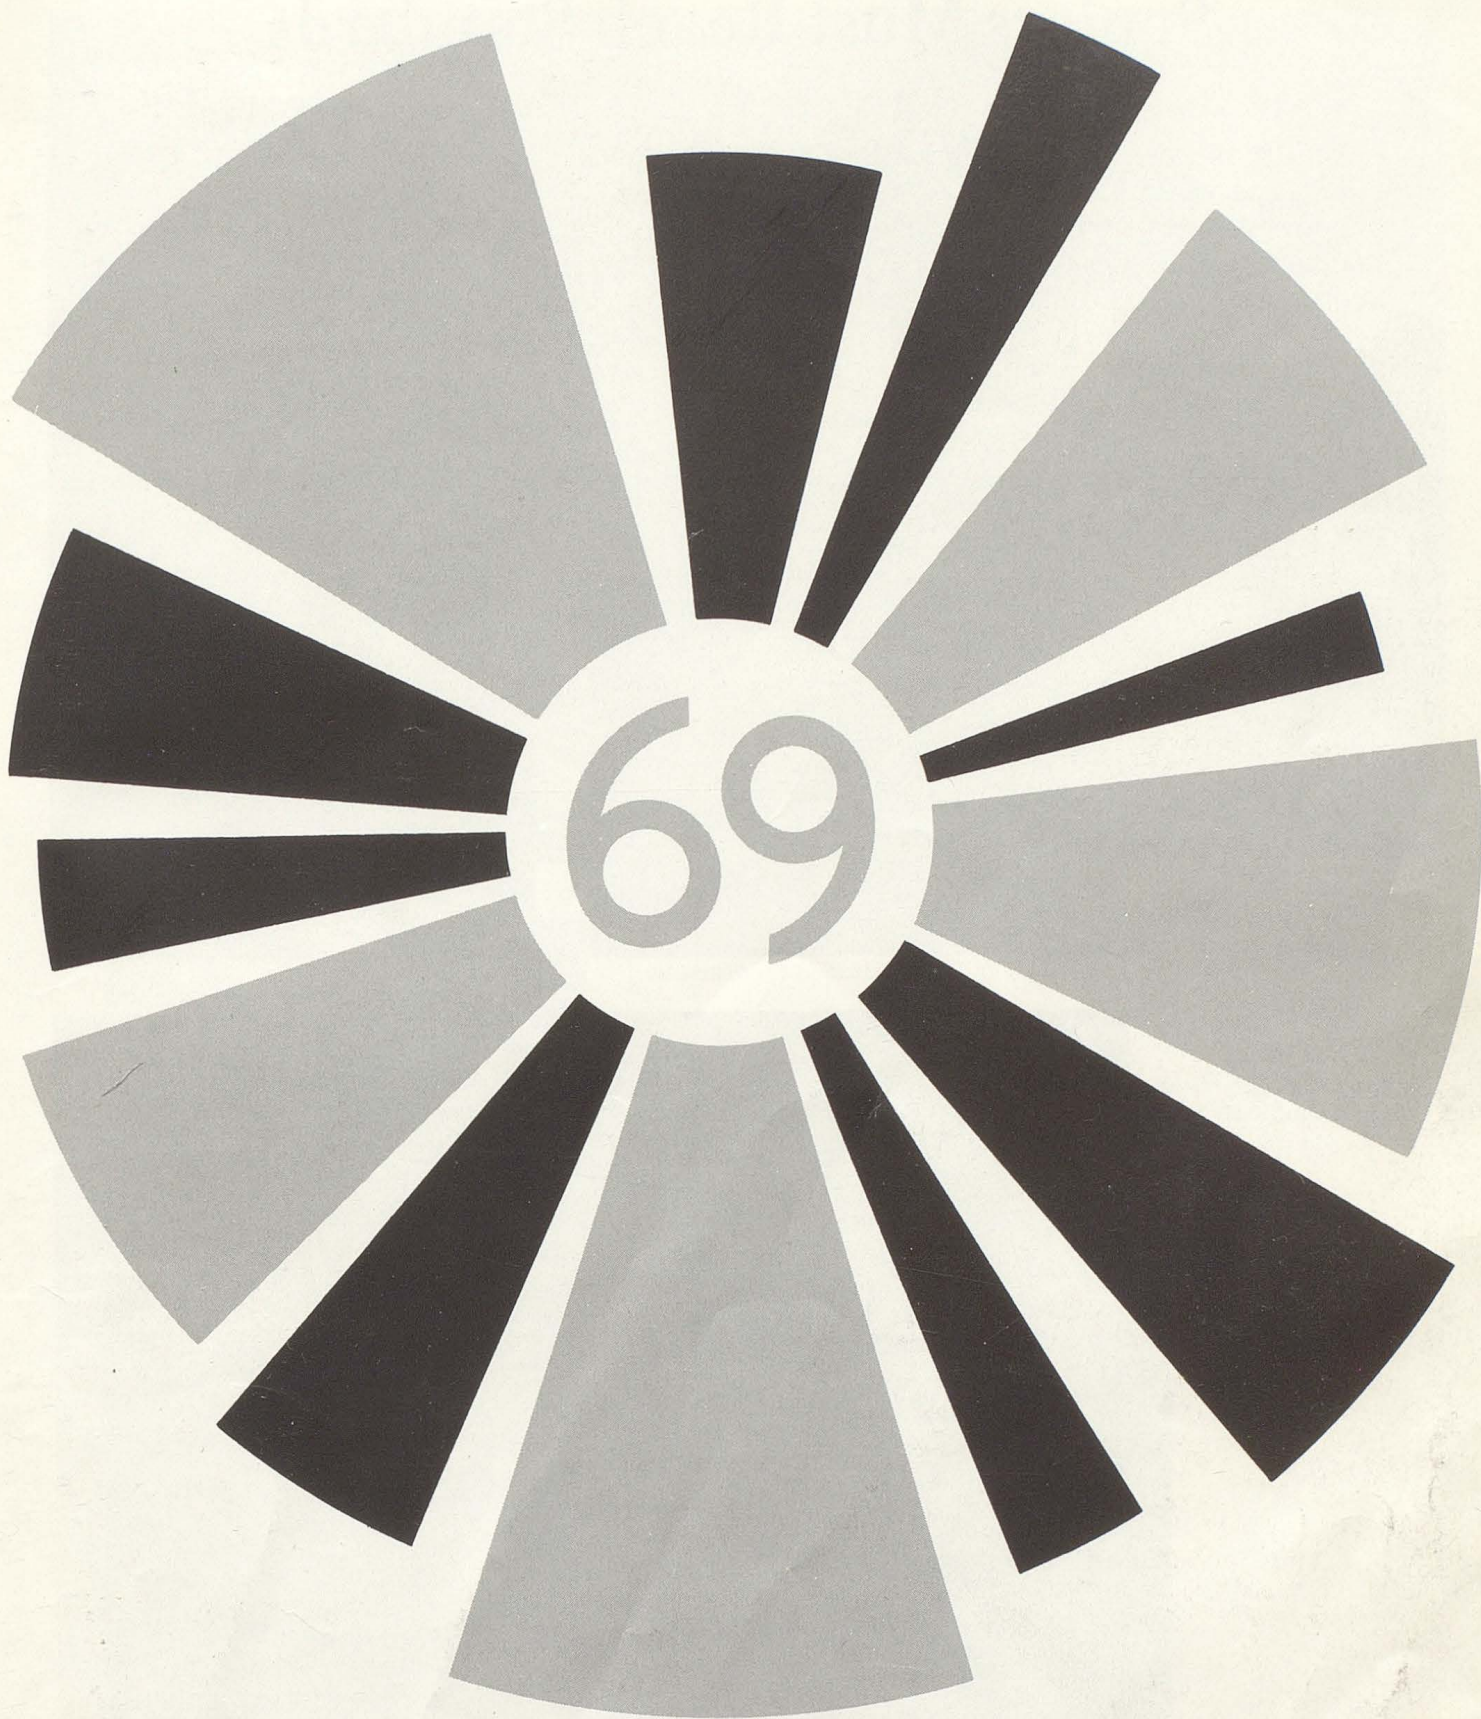

VOLUNTEER NURSES: Mrs. Honke, Mrs. Lueke, Mrs. Brudney. SEATED: Mrs. Kudron.

CAFETERIA LADIES: TOP: Mrs. Haney, Mrs. Shefcyk, Miss Maag. BOTTOM: Mrs. Landkamer, Mrs. Pfeifer, Mrs. Ragatz.

Mr. Alvie Kurtenbach stands tall to a big job of caretaking and engineering at Scotus Central.

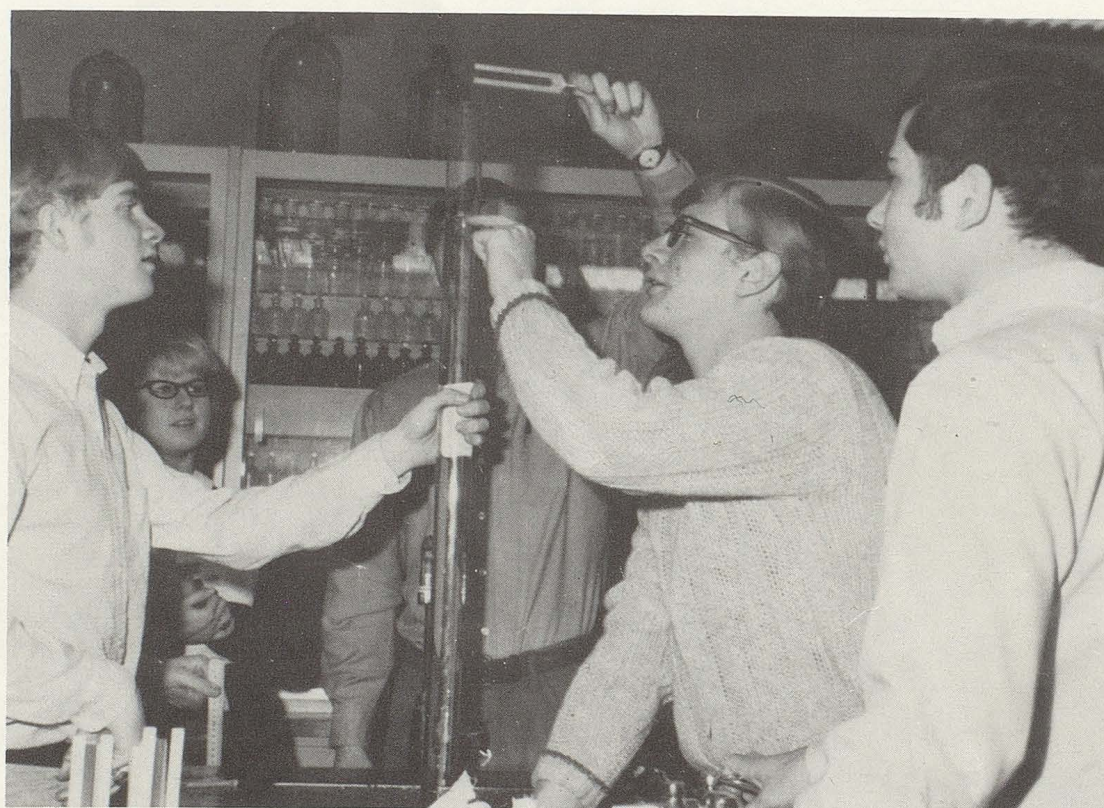

SENIORS

Seniors Must Reach Standards

A senior is keenly aware that he is meeting those standards when he is finally "measured" for the cap and gown. But it is only when he dons them that he reaches his full stature as a student of Scotus Central Catholic High.

A sense of outlook.

THE JETS CLUB HOLD A MEETING. The Jets Club is a national organization that promotes science and engineering for all high school students. Columbus Chapter 311 was organized in 1960. The Science Fair is an annual engineering project of the Club. Scotus has produced top winners at the Regional Fair in the last three years, sending this year's president to the International Science Fair in 1968.

Club members get individual help on their science projects. They can pursue their individual likes and talents toward developing a project not studied in a class group.

Lay Apostolate

These senior and junior girls share the knowledge of their religion which they have obtained from a Catholic education by teaching Catechism one hour each week to children attending the public schools in Columbus, Duncan, Platte Center, and Schuyler.
