SCOTUS CENTRAL CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL COLUMBUS, NEBRASKA

Editorially Speaking . . .

The Annual Staff chose SPIRIT as the theme for the 1970 edition of the SCOTUS. This is a new decade and we witnessed lots of spirit this year. Spirit has a broad meaning in the educational field, in school life and all community activities associated with school. When one speaks of school spirit, he automatically thinks of rooting cheerleaders, a screaming pep club, and loyal fans, all boosting the team on to a victory under the ideals of good sportsmanship. But one grasps a deeper, and wider meaning as one witnesses school spirit in evidence at Scotus. Spirit at Scotus is the atmosphere of the school. You see it in a group of voters in the Commons, in a staff of reporters and journalists getting the statistics for the SCOTUS or the latest news for a SCOTISTICS story. Again you feel it as you watch an enthusiastic student hanging posters before a game, or when you listen to a chairman trying to get the group to execute a project. You also sense it in the joyful applause given to a student who has achieved a scholarship.

And then there is a spirit that pervades the halls of Scotus as the class about to graduate, gets together for the final practice of the solemn walk up the aisle to receive the long-awaited diploma. Every class at Scotus takes away some of that spirit as it goes but the spirit still remains in the teachers and students to be communicated to others as an unending spirit that lives in us and becomes a part of us in time. May the spirit of the class of 70 live long in Scotus.

The Twirp Dance on April 10th climaxed a week of festivity during which time the girls became slaves to the boys. Halfway through the evening the boys held a Kangaroo Court to punish disobedient girls. Such activities as measuring the gym floor with Polish sausage, shaving soap-lathered balloons and pushing a pea across the floor provided laughter for all. A King and Queen of Twirp were chosen, the honors going to Bob Kosch and Judy Heimann.

The National Honor Society

"My heart is heavy as I come to greet you today. So many students have been deprived of the opportunity to pursue in a classroom, the ideals that this assembly has set here for the new members of the National Honor Society." Many of our colleges have closed their doors until fall, because campus riots make the physical security of the students impossible and the pursuit of learning unreal." These were the words of Dr. Louis C. Whitmore, Platte College Dean of Admissions, as he addressed the group at the Induction Ceremonies. Eleven members were presented by Mrs. Peck, the Moderator, on May 11. New members may be identified by the school uniform; J. Bonk, excepted. Not pictured, M. McMeekin.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

A Team With Spirit

Spirit in Scotus is high. The source is a dedicated administration. A word to describe it is "Teamwork." Father Meyer, Superintendent, and Sr. M. Bernardis, Principal, now look to the Spirit of 70 to keep the Scotus standards high and the moral tone good. This dedication to Catholic education for Columbus students has spurred them on to a hard-driven campaign for financial aid, a need which had to be met at a time when other schools were forced to close. Because they were concerned and interested, we have a Catholic high school, vitally alive, a school we are proud to attend, which has provided us with the opportunity to advance in the practice of Christian living and sharing with our fellow man our Faith. Our minds and talents have been developed in all fields of sciences, government, music, art, languages, and culture. The greater lessons of sharing the experiences of daily school life in a Christian atmosphere has been to prepare us for the greater classes taught in the classroom of the world. We owe a debt of gratitude to the leaders who have guided us during these years of growing up. To the people who have cooperated in our formation of ideals here at Scotus, who have allowed us to grow, we say "Keep up the Spirit."

The Spirit Of '70 In Service

The people who appear on these pages have dedicated their services to the well-being of the students of Scotus.

Religion classes in Father Adams' office are unique. Even when the sign reads "out" strange sounds can be heard from within and the chances are that a whole class may be participating in a session with Father. As Religion co-ordinator for Scotus, Father has brought many changes in methods.

Father Cal Giesen joined the faculty in the second semester. He teaches Religion, is assistant pastor of St. Bons.

ordination into the priesthood. In his religion classes he appealed to modern minds.

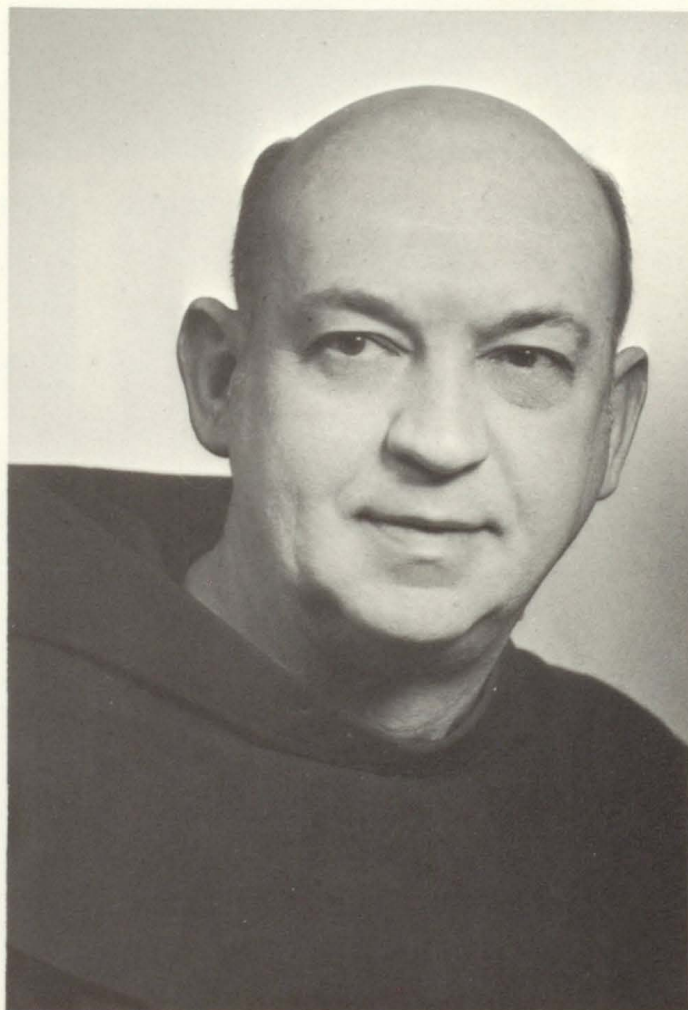

Father Fergus bids farewell to St. Bons and Scotus. Now at Humphrey.

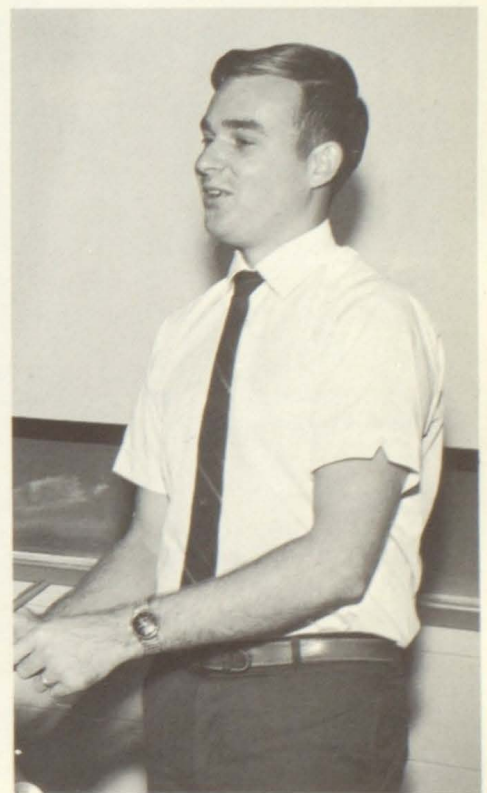

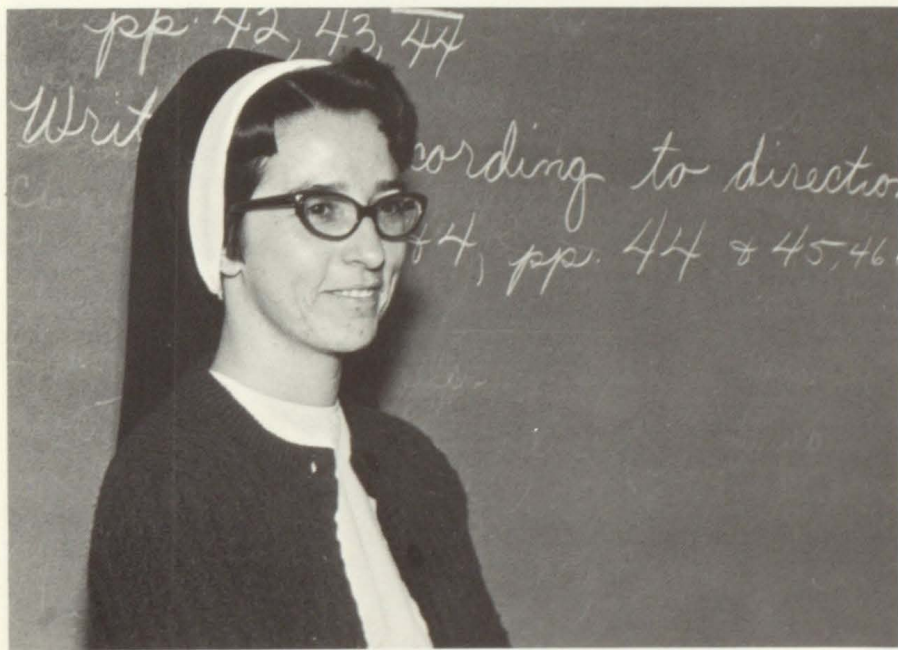

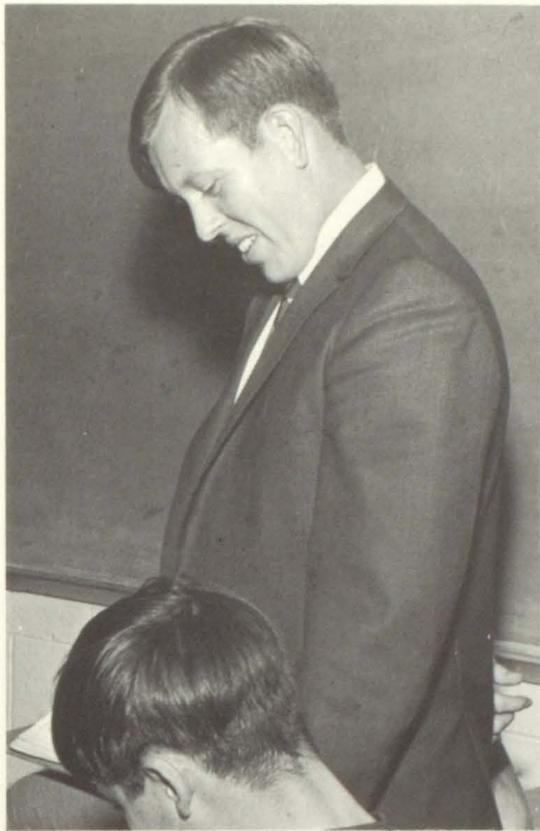

Father Price, St. Isidore pastor, greets his freshman class and all feel happy and confident in his presence.

Father Rizzo, St. Rose pastor, Genoa, listens to a lively discussion in his Freshman Religion class.

Father Regis Watts, OFM, pastor of St. Bons, teaches the juniors of Scotus and challenges a response.

Mr. Edison. Algebra, Geometry, Physics, senior homeroom, Assistant Basketball Coach.

Sister Stephanie, OSF. English, Latin, junior homeroom, Lay Apostolate Moderator.

Mrs. Peck. English senior homeroom, National Honor Society sponsor.

Mr. Higgins. Mathematics, Driver Ed., junior homeroom, Math Club Sponsor.

Miss Corder, German and English, second semester.

Sr. Marita, OSB, African Missionary, taught German for awhile before she left for her real mission field. Sr. Iniga, OSB, a retired teacher, filled the post and stayed until Miss Corder's arrival. Sister died of a heart attack, she is remembered with love.

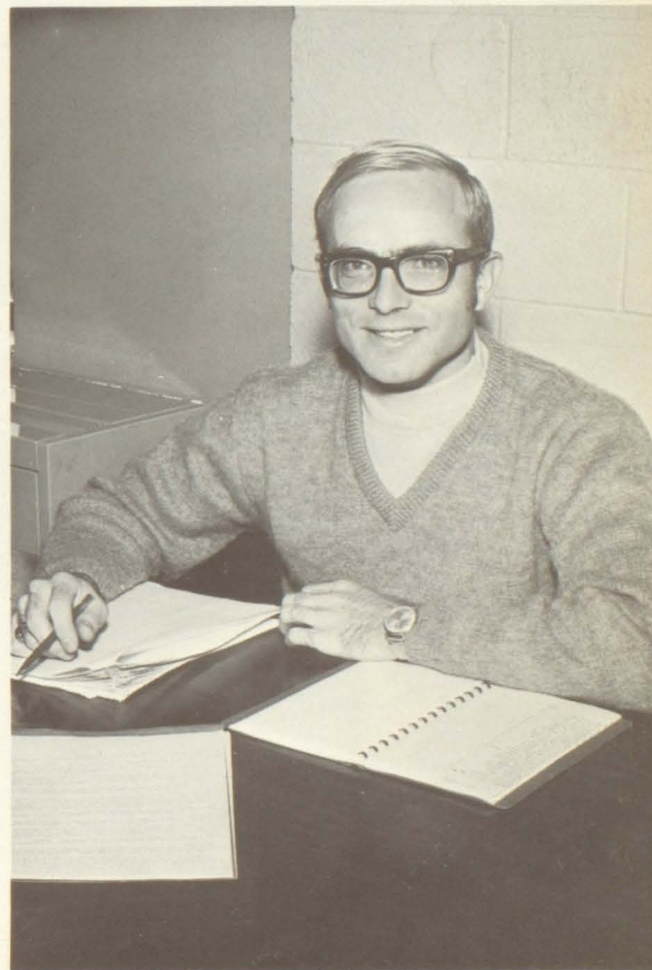

Mr. Cook. Mechanical drawing and shop. His boys get things made.

Sister Honora Ann. Secretarial training, typing, and Freshman literature. Sophomore homeroom.

Miss Irvin. Debate, speech, and drama. Statistics adviser. The school plays "Harvey" and "Don't Drink the Water" were directed by Miss Irvin.

There are golden apples to be picked,
And green hills to climb,
And meadows to run when you're young.

There are roaring rivers to be crossed,
And bridges to build,
And wild oats to sow as you grow.

But later on the other side of time,
The apples no longer taste sweet.
Bridges fall down. Meadows turn brown
As life falls apart.

Julia expresses her thanks to the Student Council for paying her senior expenses and tuition. BELOW: She plays her guitar as she sings her native songs at a Student Assembly.

Julia poses with her American Family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stavas, Jacki, Kenneth, and Mike, who is known at Scotus as "Joe."

Julia Lopez Gives View About Life Here

Every day in the United States is exciting. I am grateful to the Student Council and to the National Catholic Welfare Conference, for making it possible for me to attend Scotus Central Catholic High in my senior year. In La Paz, Bolivia, where I live, there are one million and a half people. This is what I noticed first when I came to Columbus, that it is so small if you compare it to La Paz. There are other differences, too numerous to relate in this short space. But I find the people here in Columbus and Scotus very interesting and friendly. I want to tell you I never felt like I was a stranger, everyone makes me feel at home. My host family has been very good and kind to me and helped me a great deal in learning about American customs. The school system is different but I like Scotus and the students are kind to me. The teachers, also are friendly. I hope more young people can come to America.

JUNIOR HIGH

Grade 8 — One Small Step — Yet —

The Scotus Junior High School has shown definite signs of progress and tries to keep pace with the strides made in Scotus Senior high. Noted most in the music department, science fair projects, and in the enthusiastic approach to strong development in athletics, students show promise of an active group of young citizens about to make the step into Scotus traditions.

Sister M. Christine, Principal of Scotus Junior High School, seems always to find work to be done.
