Involvement at Scotus . .

Turn the pages of this book slowly for they tell the story of Scotus. Notice the people-people who have been willing to get involved in every phase of life at Scotus.

Captured in this book is the awe of the freshmen, the enthusiasm of the sophomores, the excitement of the juniors, and the experience of the seniors.

People give this book, its unique personality.

The junior class chose Halloween decorations for the Homecoming theme. These included a haunted house, tombstones, an old graveyard, and witches to enliven the festivities.

The pep rally which was held the night before, featured the "Aquinas Raisins". Co-captains, Jerry Liss and Tom Blahak, gave pep talks.

The announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen came at half-time. The Freedom Road Band furnished the music for the dance which was held in Scotus Memorial Hall after the game.

A Sharing of Ideas Through Assemblies

On April 6, Cantari presented a program "Sharing" to Scotus students. This singing group from Platte College is under the direction of John Putnam. Their songs revolved about the theme of love. (ABOVE). (RIGHT), Dr. No-Yong Park,

Dr. No-Yong Park, the "Oriental Mark Twain," Shared his views of the American way of life in a November 16 assembly. Dr. Park has lived in China and the U.S. and spoke with a voice of experience when he told us "appreciate what you have."

People Involved Behind the Scenes

"Mr. Kurtenbach, please come to the office." This was one of the most familiar messages that was broadcast over the public address system daily. Our maintenance man, better known as "Alvie", was always busy behind the scenes to keep the school neat and clean and in good running order.

All the Scotus students would agree that lunch hour was the best time of the entire school day. The cafeteria ladies spent hours every day to prepare our tasty meals. The result of their efforts was a happy and also a well nourished, healthy student body.

Death of a Salesman Drew Applause

The drama department chose Arthur Miller's DEATH OF A SALESMAN as their autumn production. They presented the classic American tragedy on three successive nights in November. The play is the story of Willy Loman, a sales representative of a New York firm. The action takes place in Willy's house, in the yard, and in various places Willy visits in New York and Boston. There are also many flashback events that occur only in Willy's mind.

Members of the cast were:

Willy Loman	Ken Schrad
Linda (his wife)	Anne Shank

Boy-Girl Staters

The 1973 Girls State and Boys State selections were Bonnie Kudron and Thane Wibbels. Bonnie has been in Pep Club for three years. She served as squad leader in her freshman and sophomore years. She was elected into a special choral group as a freshman. She is a member of the National Honor Society and also worked on the Scotistics staff as a junior. Her fellow students elected her for the County Superintendent of Schools office on County Government Day.

Than was a member of the Student Council, representing his homeroom in the freshman and junior years. He has participated in football, basketball, track and golf. He lettered in football and golf. He has served as sports editor on the Scotus Annual in his sophomore and junior year. He also, participated in County Government Day. He was elected Weed Superintendent.

Chosen for alternates for Bonnie and Thane were: Carolee Sprunk and Bill Kurtenbach. (ABOVE), At the polls Bill marks his ballot while Gregg and John study theirs first.

Drama Department Discovers a Dozen and One Dead Bodies

The Scotus Drama Department delighted its audiences on April 28-29 with its presentation by an all-school cast (OPPOSITE PAGE), in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The play centers about two elderly ladies with a knack for poisoning old gentlemen to relieve them of their miseries. Trouble brews when their nephew decides to visit them. It seems to him that his eccentric brother has committed the murders and has buried the corpses in the cellar. Another brother, the black sheep of the family shows up with a friend which is another complication. In the end, the criminals are unwittingly caught, the old ladies decide to go to the home for the mentally unbalanced.

All players performed well in their respective roles and the play was a successful endeavor.

The play was directed by Mr. Gary Fendrick and produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc.

Honors Day Rewards Effort

Student effort is recognized on this day at Scotus in every phase of the educational organization. Some awards are offered by businesses who base their decisions on tests, personal interviews or student needs for assistance. Not all recipients are pictured here, nor are the athletics, drama, science, business and typing, annual or music awards, shown, however, each student had the satisfaction of being recognized at this convocation or at the Athletic Banquet or the Science Fair.

The teachers do appreciate the effort shown by the students and to all who tried they say "Congratulations."

Seniors and Juniors Dare to Be Different and Enjoy an Informal Prom-Banquet

The seniors and juniors decided to forego the traditional formal prom this year and to have an informal banquet and dance instead. Many hours of decorating were curtailed but the time of planning and preparing the food was worth the time.

Everyone enjoyed the turkey dinner with all the trimmings which the seniors' mothers prepared. The sophomore boys and girls who waited tables, also, appreciated the invitation to join the dance later. They liked the informality of the evening.

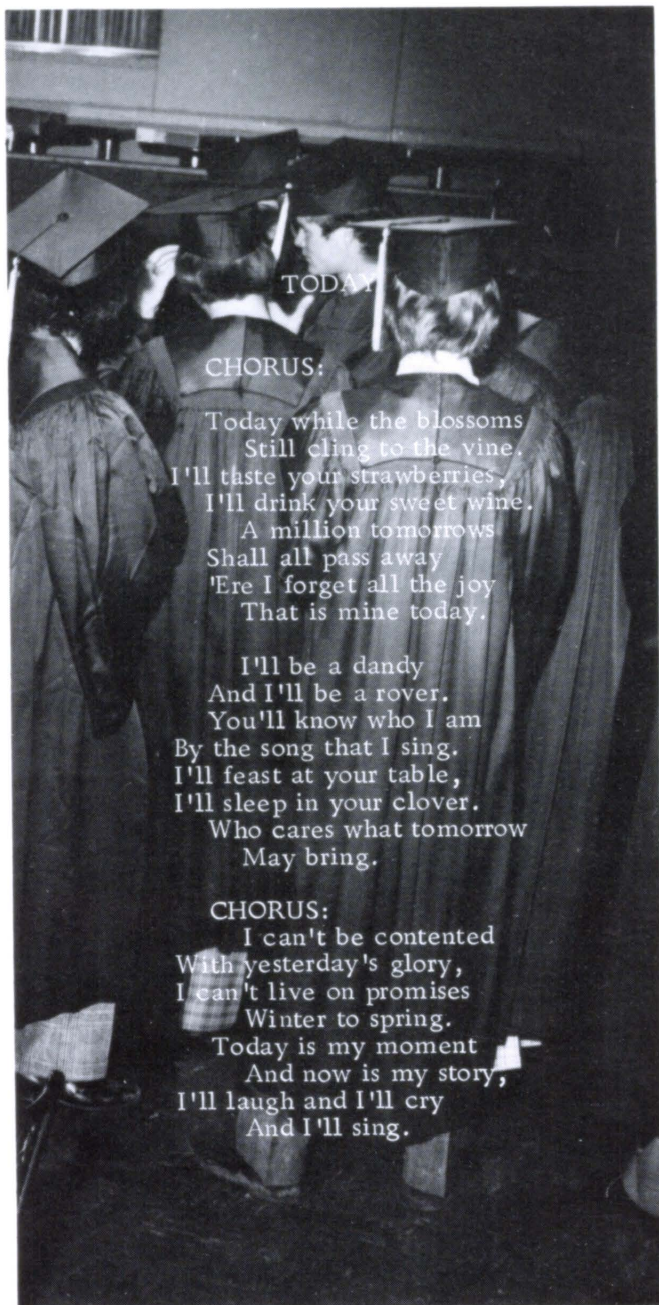

Music was furnished by the Elastic Band for the informal dance which followed the dinner. This was the seniors' last social school activity and all agreed that the evening was a highlight of the year's social events.

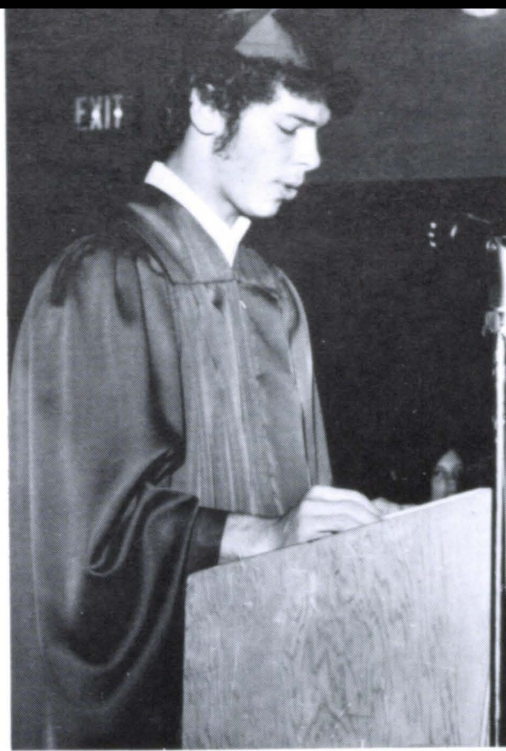

Faculty members pose with their husbands or wives as they wait to share the delicious meal with seniors and juniors at their Prom-Banquet festivities.

Graduation 1973

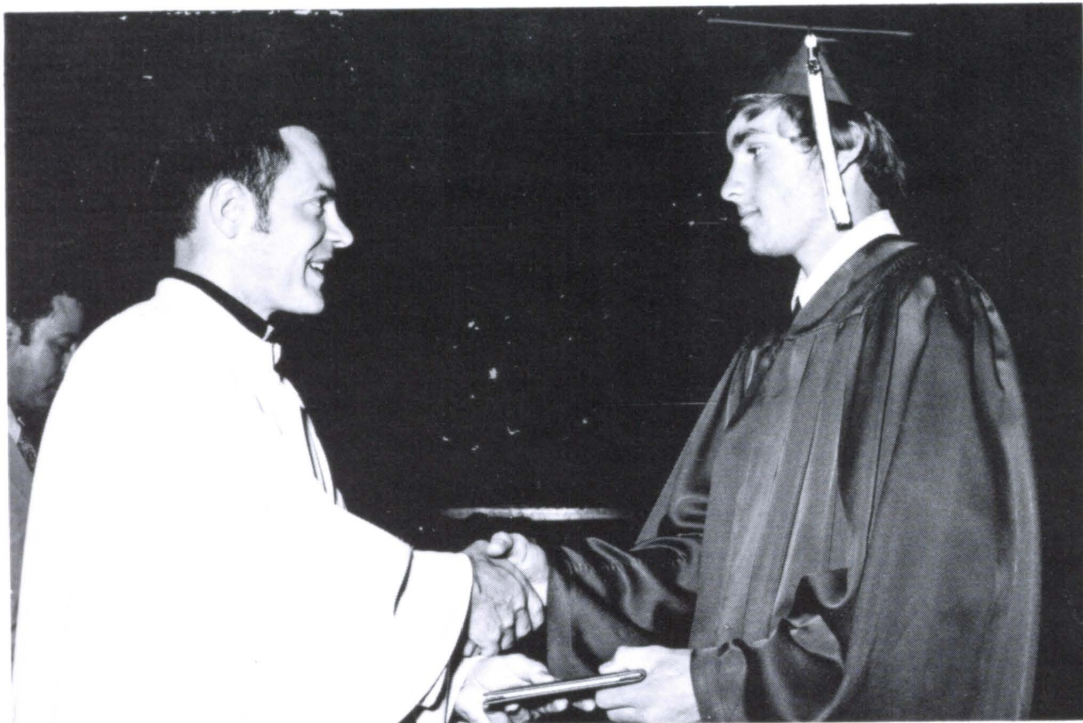

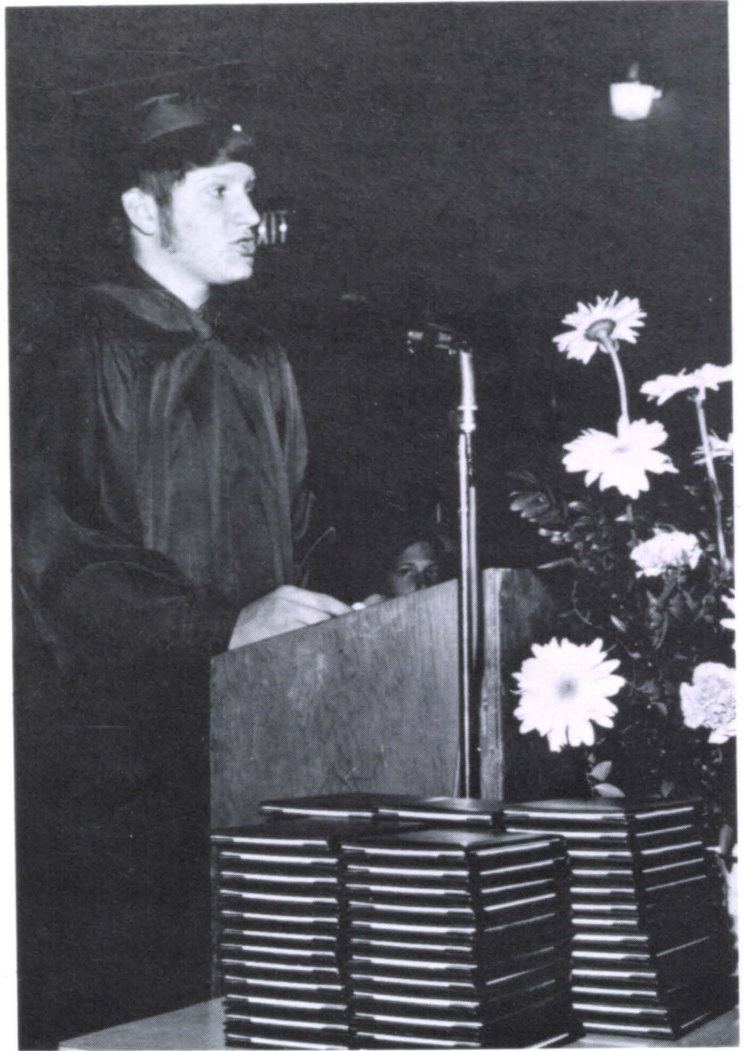

There are no strangers
in the world,
Only friends you have yet to meet.

Graduation is a potpourri of emotions--sadness, joy, relief, sorrow, insecurity, freedom. And to the Class of 1973 it meant a time for change. Once outside of their sheltered high school life, they faced a world waiting for them to respond with involvement.

Senior Class President, Ken Schrad, (RIGHT), tells the Graduates that change has influenced every life and will always do so. "Accept problems and bring about change. People will adjust to problems but problems will not adjust to them" he said.

Leap to Victory

The girl tracksters had a great season. They placed third in Girls' Centennial Conference and show great promise for the future.

Brenda Grubaugh was the leading Scotus track girl in 1973. She took first place at State in three events. In the 50 yard dash she set a Class B record with a 6.2. She also won the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Through her scoring only, Scotus earned the second place at State.

Who Won?

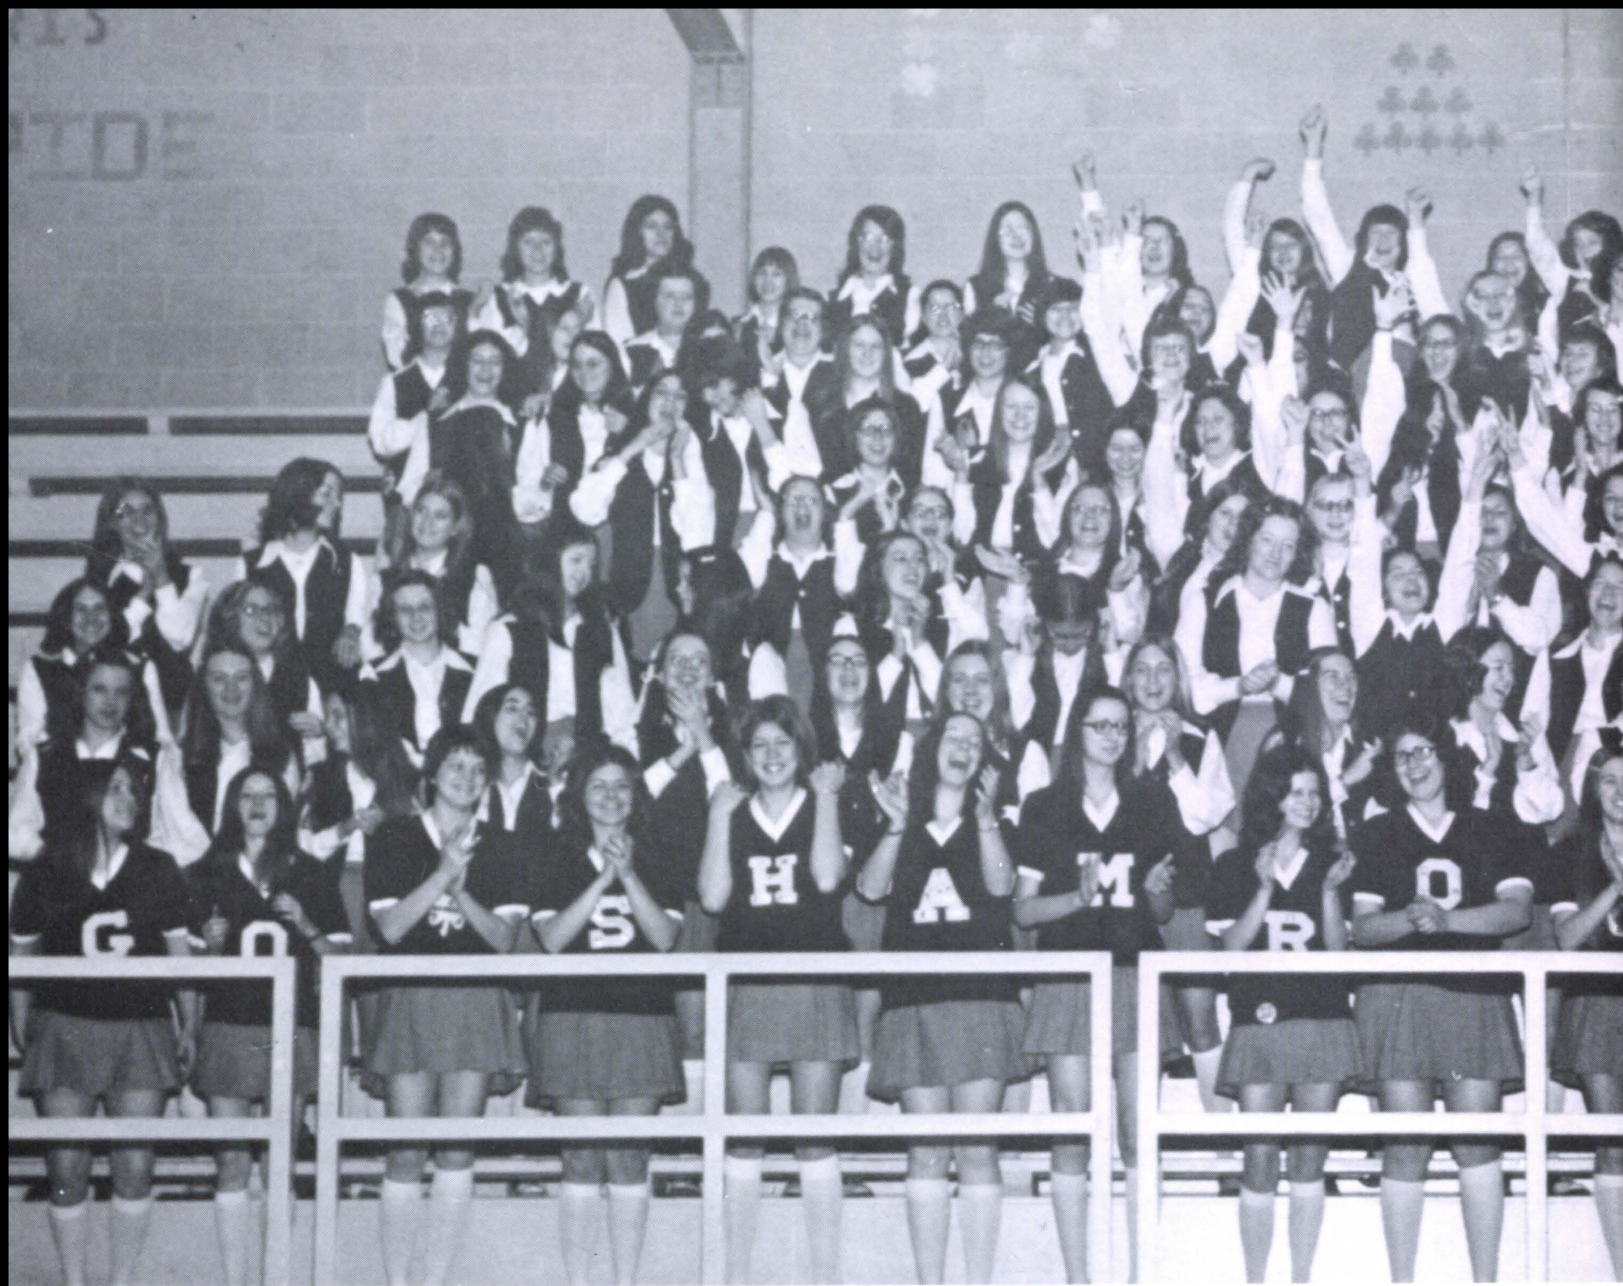

The S Club has donated a trophy case to be placed near the entrance to the gym. Funds for the new trophy case were raised by means of a special basketball game pitting the Faculty against the Intramural All-Stars. The game was hotly contested as both teams showed amazing skills with the ball. However, due to several controversial calls and few lapses of the rules, the outcome may never be really decided. So, just to keep the statistics straight, we will give you the opportunity to pick the winner.

Organizations

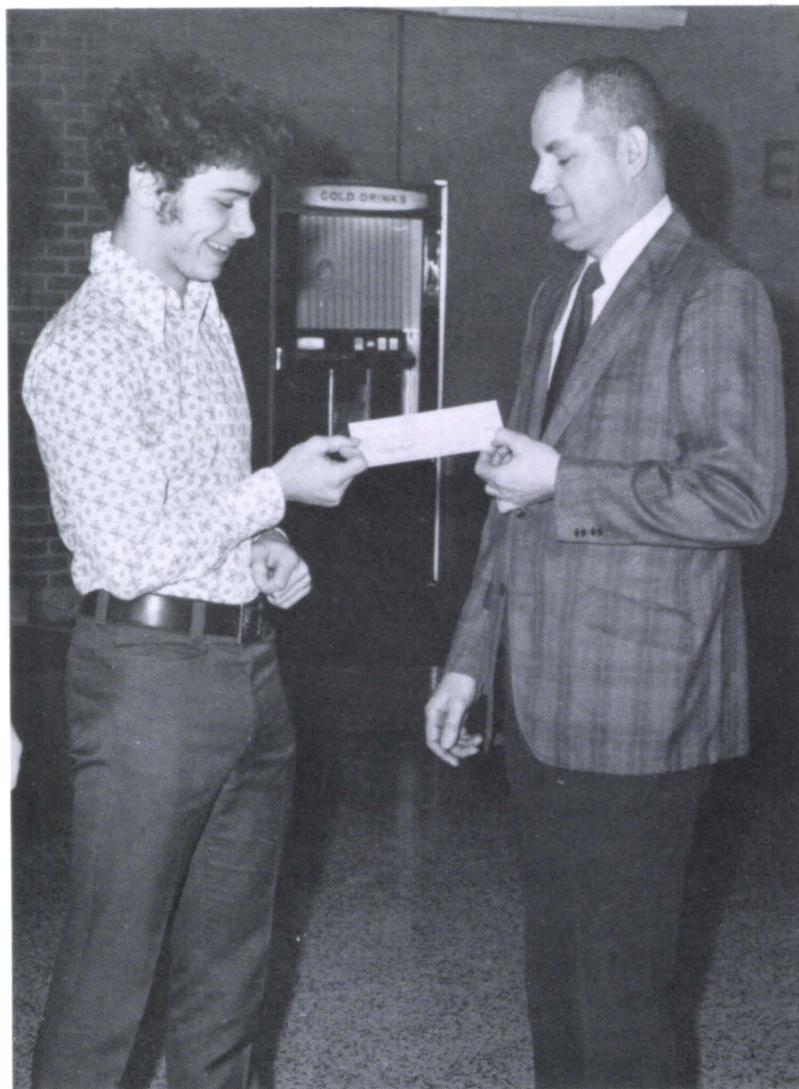

Students Tune Into "Proper Channel."

The Student Council at Scotus voiced the concerns of the entire student body. Representatives were elected from each homeroom and the leaders of all school organizations reported on all aspects of activity in their respective groups.

Homeroom representatives were responsible for collecting money from the sale of Vegas Night Raffle tickets. President Tom Zabawa (to the right) accepts a check of $4294 from Mr. Ted Niedbalski, President of Scotus Central Catholic Board of Directors, which represents all funds raised by high school students for the Vegas Night Raffles.

Another activity sponsored by the Student Council was the Intramural All Stars vs Faculty Basketball game. Profits went to the Campaign for Human Development and S Club. Members and officers are shown below in a relaxed spirit.

INVOLVEMENT... there could be no annual without it. Preparation of this book required the cooperation of all staff members. Each person had to feel that the pages he laid out were the most important of the book--and they were important! Working together is not a small task. Planning, organizing schedules that involved the whole school, collecting materials, took time, patience, and skill. Yet every staff member agreed that the finished product, your Scotus Annual, was well worth the effort and all the time and involvement needed. Youthful Scientists Show Talent

The Science Fair, an annual event sponsored by the Science Club, was held on March 10 and 11. Students from the junior and senior high entered projects in the various branches of science. The criterion for judging was: creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, dramatic value, clarity and skill. The judges were selected by the Professional Engineers of Nebraska from the Columbus area.

Tammy Obal and Cindy Mimick earned the third place overall award of $15 for their joint project on Heat Conduction.

Tammy is pictured on the OPPOSITE PAGE with their project. Six projects were later presented at the Regional Fair at Nebraska City. Damian, David, and Linda Schrad entered their projects in the senior division and Tammy and Cindy, Nick Hajek and Diane Schrad in the junior division.

First, second, and honorable mention awards were given in each of the eleven classifications in the senior division, and in each of the six categories of the junior divisions.

These candles were lit during the induction ceremony held in the gym on May 1. Dr. Jerry Lee, President of Platte College, (RIGHT) was guest speaker at this occasion. He centered his talk around the National Honor Society standards of character, leadership, service, and scholarship. He commended the students who had met these goals through continuous efforts to maintain the high standards the society demands of them.

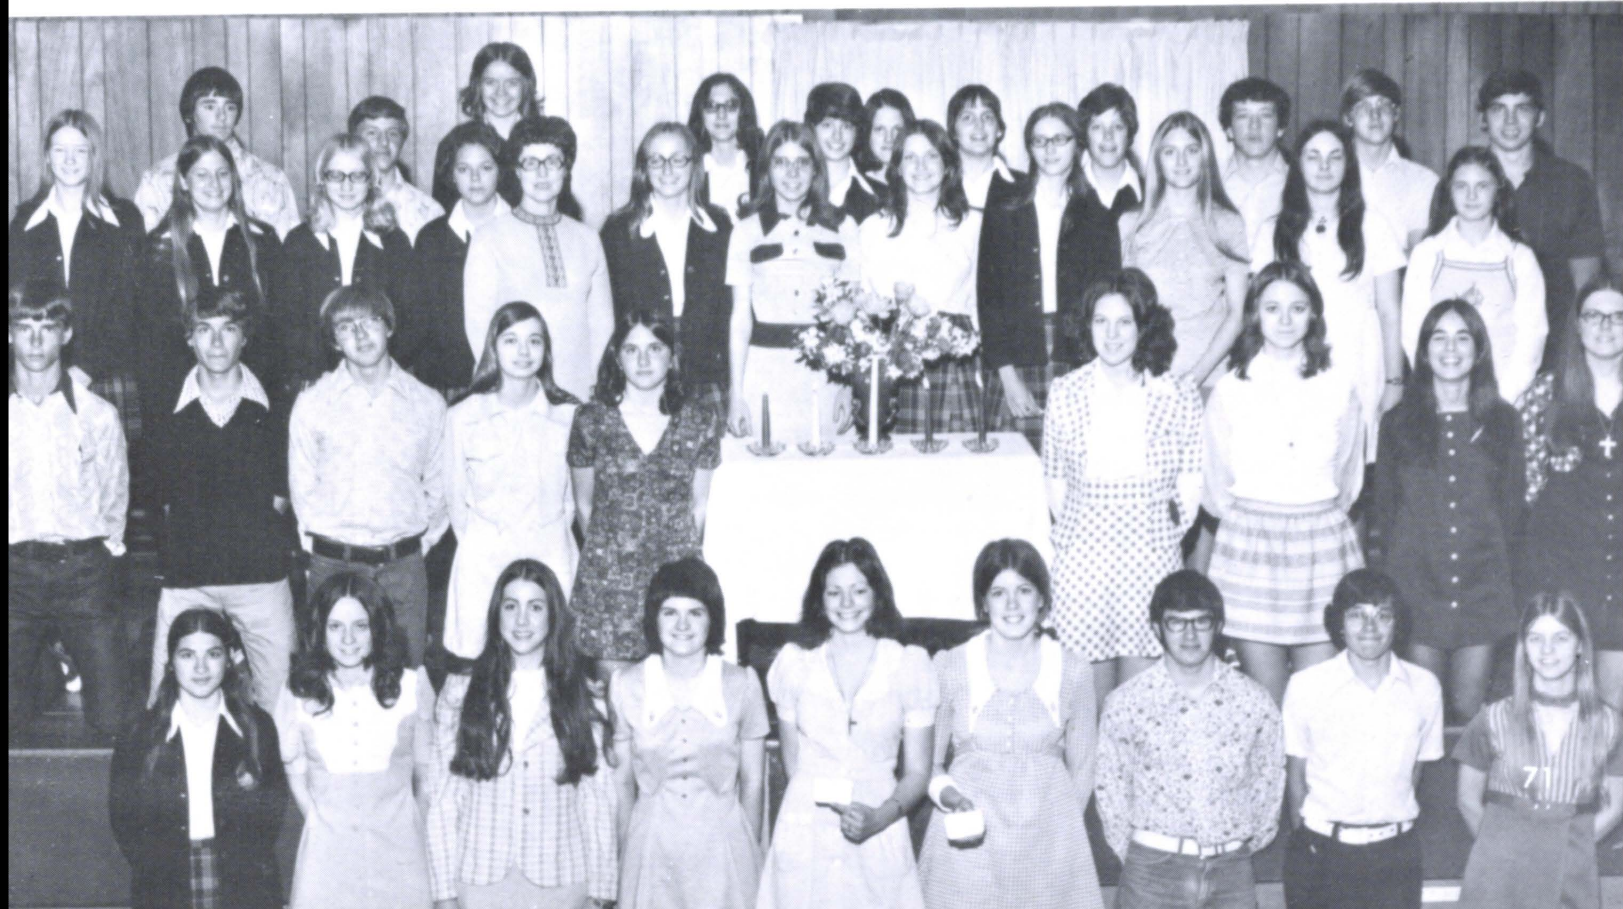

I Light the Candle . . .

The lighting of the candles is the symbolic feature of every induction ceremony into the National Honor Society. These lighted candles represent the high standards of knowledge, character, service, leadership, and scholarship that its members must maintain.

Mrs. Alberta Peck (LEFT), Sponsor of the society, reviewed these standards before she presented the nominees for provisional membership in the society. Pictured with her, on stage, are these provisional members, underclassmen who must meet the society's standard before being admitted to full membership.

Standing below stage are the seniors who maintained the required standards and were admitted to permanent membership in the National Honor Society on May 1. What's New?

The Scotistics Staff worked hard to make their paper a factual accounting of the school happenings as well as an intellectual and humorous source of entertainment. Staff members were juniors and seniors.

The juniors prepared the April issue so that they could experience the involvement required for planning the newspaper.

Each issue of the paper included feature articles, news items, a sports page, and a question of the month. The last issue was a senior special and contained the senior's Will, Seniors remember. Miss Zenk (RIGHT) Scotistics adviser, and editors Kim Robak and Susie Heimann, prepare the dummy. The entire Scotistics staff is pictured below.

Knowledge is food for the mind. Hunger of understanding is only satisfied as we learn about learning, think about thinking, and know about knowing - and that becomes a feast!

Academics

My dear friends in Jesus,

We have spent another year together as a Community of Faith around the Person of Jesus. Hopefully, most of us have caught and have been taught deeper faith in Jesus.

People throughout the world are looking for Jesus. I hope a few from their midst found Him in us. I hope that our community was a witness to the living reality that Jesus has Risen, that He is Alive, and that He has been and is in our midst.

A Community of Faith demands interrelationships, it demands support of one another, it demands communication, it demands prayer and study, and most of all, it demands that Jesus be our strength, our heart, and our purpose in life.

To our graduates and others that might be leaving us, I say go forth and build other Communities of Faith around the Person of Jesus. To those students and employees who are returning, I say, let us double our efforts to become a Community of Faith around the Person of Jesus.

Yours around Jesus,

Father E. J. Meyer

Father Emmett Meyer

Efficiency and Awareness of Student Problems Characterize Administration

Mr. Edward Hittner came to Scotus this year as the first lay principal of the school which had a Sister Principal during its long history since 1884, when it became St. Francis Academy until 1925 when the parish bought it and named it St. Bonaventure. That name it kept until 1965 when it became Scotus Central Catholic and became a centralized school.

Mr. Hittner possesses a friendly smile, a firm disciplinary hand, and an administrative authority which assures our school of a successful operation. He has involved himself in many of our activities and showed his concern in our advancement and growth. He sent the following message to the Scotus Annual.

As we look back over the past school year we can see that the many activities, the busy days and the last minute preparations all contributed to making this a successful and fast moving year. Directly related to this success is the number of participants and the enthusiasm they expressed for school activities.

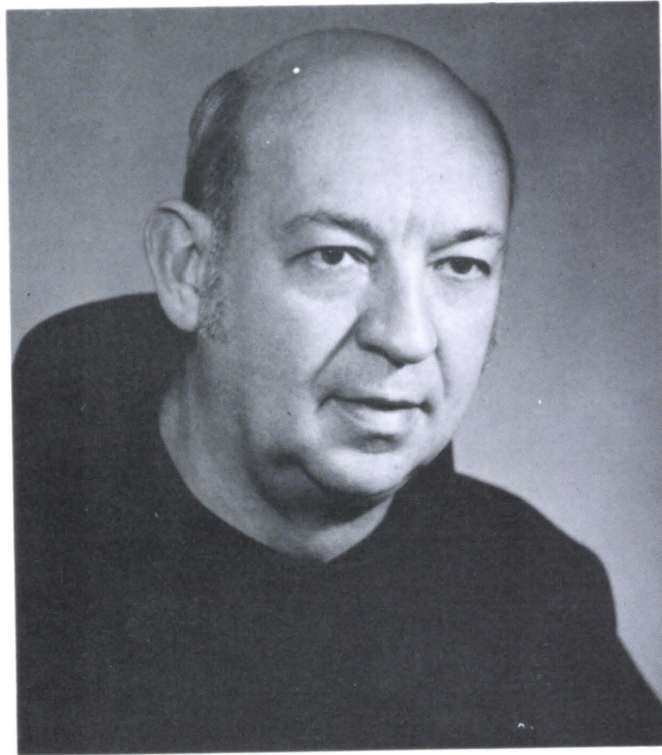

To the graduates now entering an adult society, which is quite worldly, I would encourage you to keep up this participation and enthusiasm and to direct it toward good Christian Ideals.

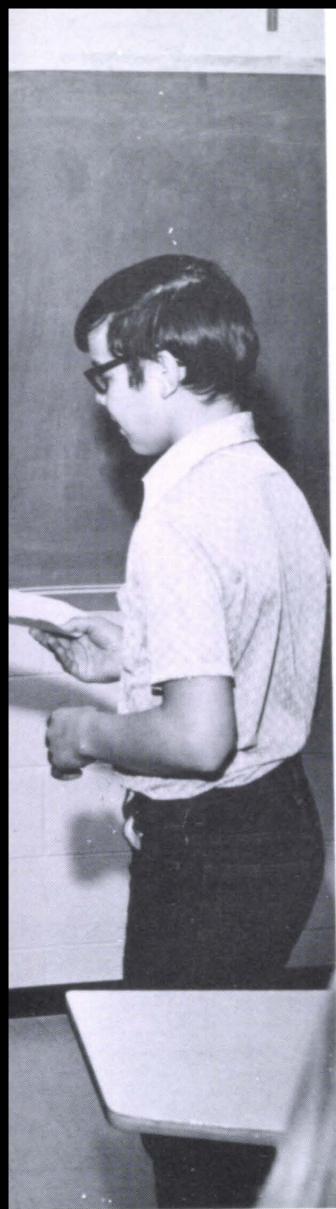

Ed Hittner

Others Catch a Living Faith

These busy pastors took time to meet with students in the junior and senior high classes. Christian principles are lived rather than taught and the daily contact with each other is the testing ground for all religious principles. Catholic faith lived is Catholic faith as Christ would teach it to us.

(RIGHT CENTER) is shown Father Laurin pastor of St. Anthony Parish in Columbus. (RIGHT) is Father Regis Watts, pastor of St. Bonaventure parish. (BELOW) Father John Rizzo, pastor of St. Rose of Lima parish, Genoa. (CENTER BOTTOM) is Father Starostka, pastor of St. Joseph parish, Platte Center. They are our spiritual teachers and guides.

Both the pastor and his Associate pastor from St. Isidore's parish are on the faculty at Scotus. Father Francis Price, (LEFT), pastor, teaches freshman religion. Father Jerome Spenner, (ABOVE) is Religion Co-ordinator, has been involved in the Search Program and pursues a hobby in photography. The Scotus Annual is indebted to him for a large number of fine candid photos in the book which only the Scotus Eye caught. Students feel free to use his office for preparing the Mass liturgies, to assist him in developing film, or just for a moment of recreation.

Mrs. Kudron (ABOVE), an alumnus of St. Bonaventure High, has served her Alma Mater as Father Meyer's secretary. She handled tuition payments, school fees, and class treasuries. She also acted as secretary at the meetings of the Scotus Central Catholic Board of Directors. If there was a problem of scheduling, there was always help to be found at the desk of Mrs. Keating (LEFT in the center above picture with Mrs. Jochum). She was the mediator between tardy students and the teacher. Those blue slips that she issued were tickets to a class. Students sat on the edge of their seats waiting for her to announce their turn to go to cafeteria. Mrs. Jochum has assisted in the office for the past two years. She has charge of the bookstore, takes care of the audio-visual equipment, and is active in many of the students activities.

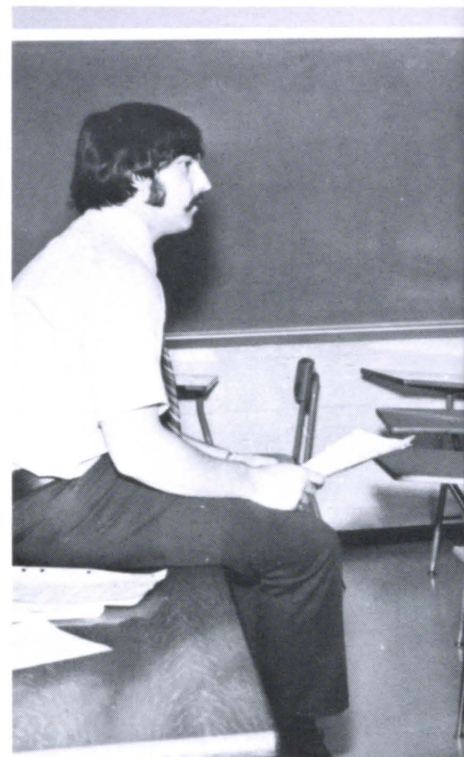

Friends and Books Inspire

GREINER'S FURNITURE & APPLIANCE

Mr. Younger, Biology, Physiology, and Earth Science teacher, advised the sophomores in projects and fund raising activities. Formaldehyde permeated the lab section and students knew where he could be found. He was athletic director which kept him busy for all seasons.

Sister Claudia, new math and science teacher, taught Physics, Advanced Algebra, Senior Math and Geometry. She was freshman homeroom sponsor and was involved in the Search program started this year. Students followed her lead in the singing at daily Mass.

They Discover New Wonders

Mr. Shaw, new science teacher at Scotus, taught Chemistry and Earth Science in senior high and also science in junior high. He was sponsor of the Scotus Science Club that sponsors the Science Fair annually. Besides these classroom duties, he coached the junior high track team. He is pictured at left.

Mr. Brtek (BELOW), Math teacher and junior homeroom sponsor, jogged many miles with the Cross Country team. As Coach of the junior varsity basketball, and later, girls' track he had a lot of help from his new wife.

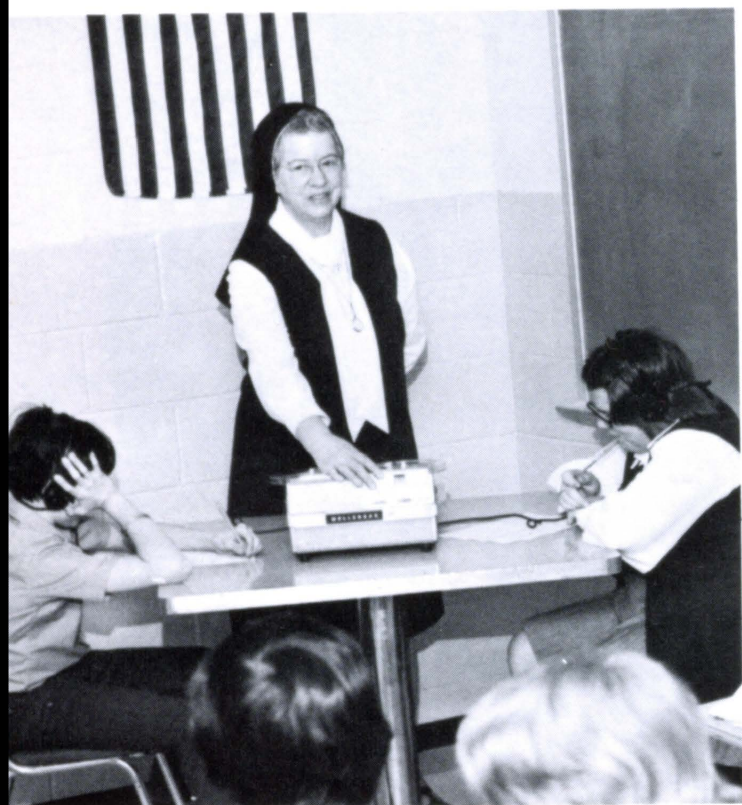

Home Ec girls learned the rewards of preparing new dishes from Mrs. Ekeler. Enticing aromas led others to the Home Ec room. Their fashion creations also showed talent and good selection of style and fabrics.

Media of Communication

Sister Stephanie (RIGHT), was presented the Outstanding Young Educator Award this year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Sister is an English teacher, a junior homeroom sponsor, and has been active in co-ordinating the CCD program in St. Bonaventur's. Congratulations!

Sister Colette (ABOVE), Spanish teacher and advisor of the Annual, administers a Spanish test. Sister shares her experiences in Spain by showing her colored slides, maps, and other collections as she talks. She spent five weeks in Spain. Mrs. Peck (RIGHT), admires the azalea which the seniors presented her on her return from the hospital. She made a two weeks tour of England this winter and found the experience broadening for her understanding of English literature, her field. Mrs. Peck also sponsors the National Honor Society and senior homeroom.

Self-Expression in Art-Music-Drama

Miss Kiser (CENTER TOP), Art and German teacher, shows Lori how to create things of beauty in the art class. Language is another way of expressing one self. As Girls' Volleyball Coach, Miss Kiser earned the green letter jacket she sported around town. She also assisted in coaching the Girls track. Miss Steffen (LEFT), Choral Director, strums her guitar. Her choral groups gave two concerts and sang for the Graduation exercises and at National Honor Society Induction. Mr. Fendrick (ABOVE), Speech, Drama, and Drivers Ed teacher, demonstrates the tricks of makeup. He directed two plays and a cabaret.

History Looks Back— Business Plans Ahead

Miss Donner (ABOVE), active all year as Pep Club sponsor, teaches a course in Communism, Psychology, Sociology and World History. She also was sponsor of the winning homeroom in Vegas Night Raffle ticket sales. Miss Jahn (CENTER TOP), taught Bookkeeping and Typewriting, courses helpful to learning how to manage a budget. She sponsored a freshman home room and was a Pep Club sponsor also. She will teach in Lincoln where she and her new husband will be living. Mr. Puetz (RIGHT), is Head Football and Track Coach. He takes his students to many places in his World Geography lectures and films. Students never forget his stories to illustrate certain points in American History, whether fact or fiction.

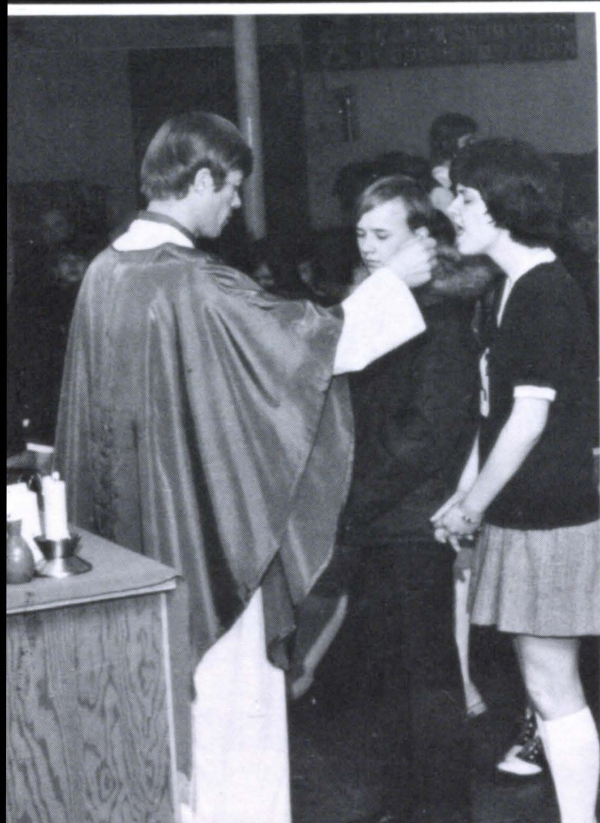

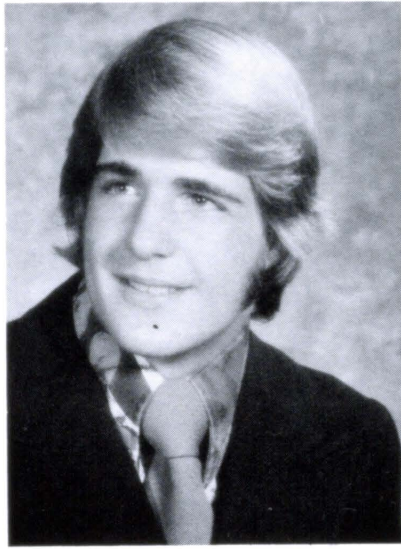

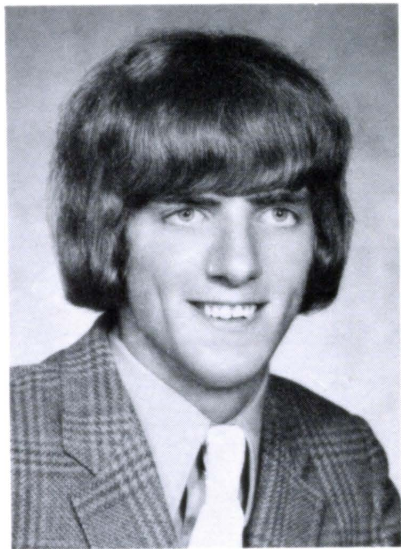

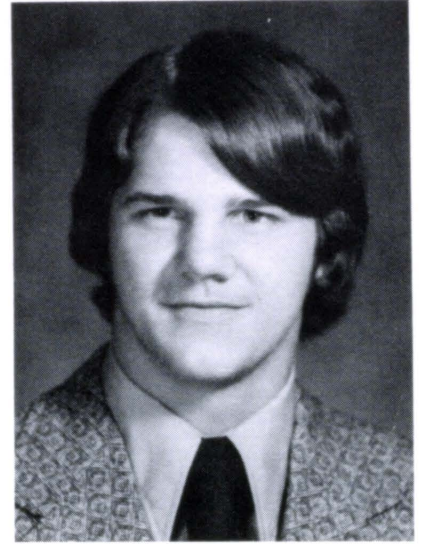

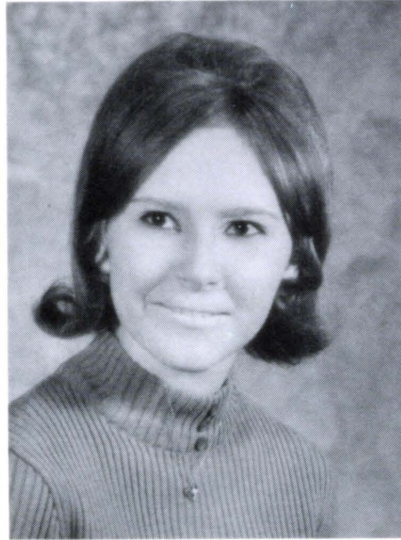

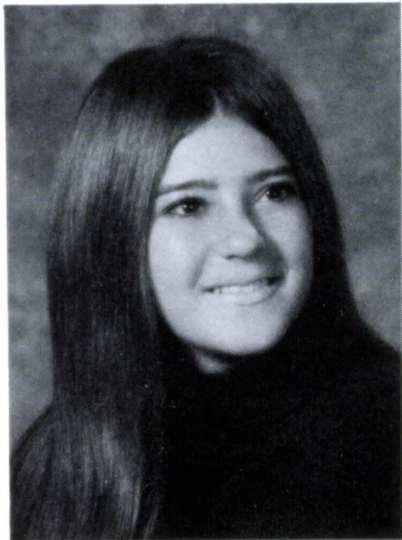

I am not afraid of tomorrow, for I have seen yesterday and I love today.

IGE Math Introduced

Individually Guided Education, a program designed to allow a student to proceed at his own pace, was introduced at the second semester to the seventh grade math classes. Before he proceeds, a student is tested. Regrouping occurs every day. This involves holding all math classes at the same time. Mrs. Pekarek, shown at the right, was Unit Leader for the group of math teachers involved. These Unit teachers were: Mr. Jahn, Miss Hugo and Mrs. Larsen. All junior high students will be involved in the IGE Math next year.

Whither go the people? I must hasten to follow them - for I am their leader.

Sister Christine (SHOWN LEFT) Junior High Principal for seven years and a history teacher, said that she has tried to instill in her students a good Irish spirit of enthusiasm for learning. It has been her purpose to encourage them to continue, in Scotus, their Christian education. Sister is a native of Columbus. She says, "It has been a distinct privilege to be a teacher at Scotus. Sure, Sister, and we will be missing you next year.

Mr. Jahn was the head of the Science department, assisted as Unit teacher for the IGE Math Program, and coached the Junior High Basketball team. He acted as Adviser for the Junior High Student Council and coordinated Vegas Night Raffle Ticket sales with the Scotus Senior High Sales.

Vegas Night Champions

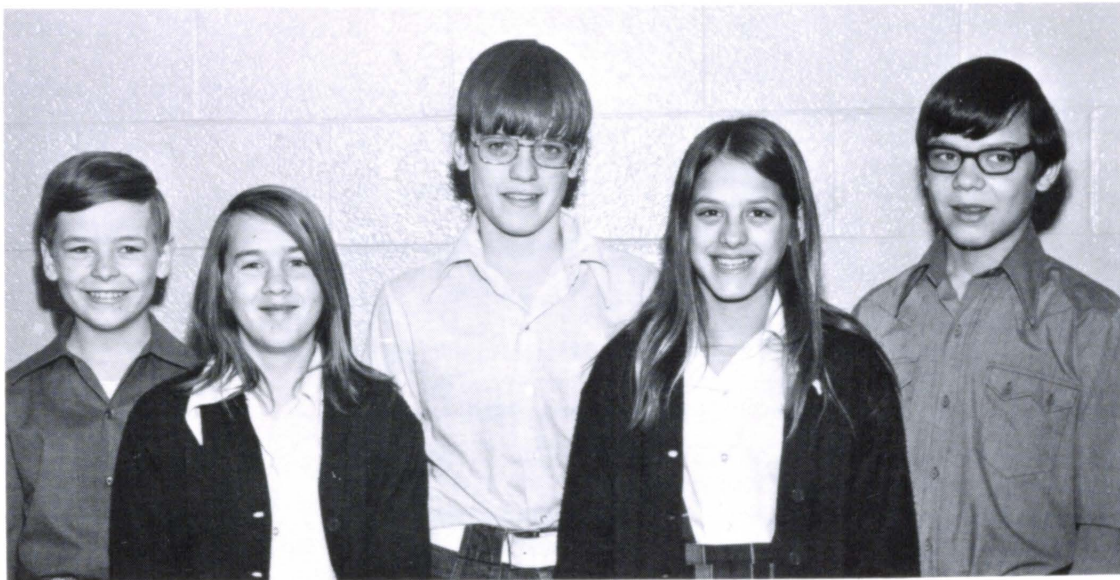

Debbie Baumert (left) outdistanced all Junior High competitors by $30 to reach the incredible number of $113 worth of Vegas Night Raffle tickets. Tammy Gonka (right) sold $83 worth, and Jeff Pekarek (center) brought in $63 to make a total of $259 for these three individuals. With effort like theirs, one can easily see why Mr. Jahn, who was ticket sales co-ordinator, beamed with happiness at the outstanding response of all the students. "We broke all records this year" he proudly boasted afterwards.
