WORK FORCE

Work???? Is that what you think I do? Naaa, I just go there and act busy!!! In reality, students work for a number of reasons. Money for gas and other car expenses enables students to "cruise around," go to movies, eat junk food, and enjoy other forms of entertainment when not working or at school. Other expenses are the newest tapes and fashionable new clothes that call out "buy me, buy me."

Working has its frustrations. People miss out on sports activities, family gatherings, dates, and parties. Trying to have a social life can be difficult when you find that your name is on the work schedule for another twenty hours on the weekend.

Balancing time may prove to be difficult, but there are many common excuses that aid in 'skipping out.' The all time most common is "I'm not really feeling too well, so, uh . . . I don't think I'll be able to work tonight." Others may go a little more drastic and say, "My sister is ill. But, that does not always work.

The most popular places to look for work are at local restaurants. Fast food joints are always in need of labor.

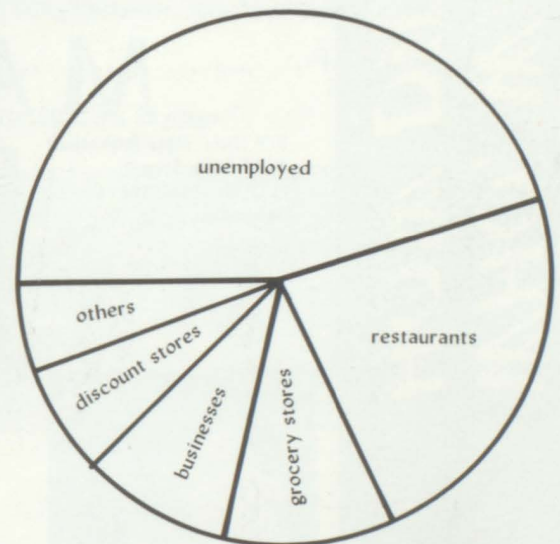

Pizza places find that high school students will deliver pizzas as long as there is a stereo to listen to. Grocery stores keep students busy getting price checks and stocking shelves. Other jobs range from lifeguarding to cleaning hotel rooms with everything from clothes stores and office jobs in between.

The most aggravating situations can happen while working. Ron Wesel said his pet peeve is when the windchill factor is twenty degrees below zero and I have to bring carts in. Diana Raimondo said, "My pet peeve is when I trip on the mop and slip on the wet floor." No matter what happens at work, Pam Pensick agrees that it's the worst when customers yell at me and I have nothing to do with it.

Balancing time between work and other activities may be rough, but, somehow, students manage to work everything out and prove that working students have the opportunity to live life to its fullest while learning to become mature adults.

How do students pass through a day?

Sharetime students attend classes at area schools

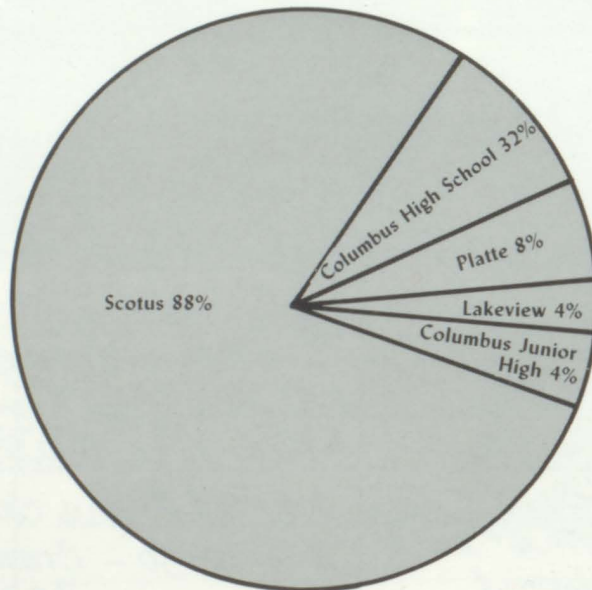

The Sharetime Student Program, set-up to give students at Scotus the opportunity to attend classes at Columbus Senior High, Columbus Junior High, Lakeview, and Platte, grew during the 1987-88 school year. The classes students choose to attend were those not offered at Scotus. A total of 31 students took part in the Sharetime Program this year.

The classes students chose to take were: industrial arts, beginning arch. drawing, L.D. reading, L.D. English, music theory, introduction to education, introduction to behavioral science, great plains, world history, beginning electronics, auto tune-up, basic woods, advanced electronics, government, drafting, Auto I, electrical wiring, English level I, cabinet making, and metals. There are many various classes being taken, because the program serves several purposes. A student could choose a class to help advance their talents, or a class to help prepare them for a special field of work. Sharetime student Larry Backes said, "My music theory class is really helping me prepare for college." It is obvious to Scotus students that this program is a necessity. Introduction to Education student Jenny Lassek said, "Intro to Education really helped me make some final decisions about my career." Although students are able to take college prep classes, there are also many vocational education classes available. Some popular ones are woods, metals, and autos.

The Sharetime Student Program is definitely an asset to the Scotus curriculum. With new classes available, Scotus students pass through the day by passing from building to building. Being part of the Sharetime Student Program gives students the chance to excel in areas not available at Scotus. "An outstanding experience," said sharetime student Marin Melcher.

Life in the 'Pass' Lane

Passes, passes, passes!! At the beginning of the year the Scotus student body received multi-colored punchcards, passes, and tickets. Not only were there green, pink, and yellow lunch tickets available, but orange library punchcards were required to use the library facilities. Some students were even so lucky as to receive a pink tardy slip first thing in the morning due to excuses such as: the ever so popular oversleeping, cars wouldn't start during the cold winter days. A few selective students were just simply late. Throughout the day a handful of students are distributed green passes to transfer to their next period classes, meetings, restroom, lockers and so on.

The variety of punchcards, tickets and passes are designed for the benefit of the students and teachers. They lessen the amount of congestion in the hallways during classes.

But, someday some poor student will get so mixed up with all the passes, punchcards and tickets that they will try to eat lunch with a library punch, try to get into their next class with a lunch ticket, try to go to the library with a tardy slip, and . . . Well, you get the picture.

Is Scotus classy? Yes! . . . in more ways than one. In fact, four . . . to be exact. From top to bottom - seniors to freshmen.

Although freshmen are on the bottom of the list, they contribute much. After all, where would our clubs be without them?

Sophomores are a big help, too, because they somehow manage to survive biology and still sell candy bars to fund the Sweetheart dance.

And what about juniors? This class not only tackles A.C.T.'s, college mail, and County Government day but still takes care of the biggest event of all - Prom.

Finally, the seniors, who host Homecoming amid research papers, egg-babies, and sad good-byes.

Hey Diary!

I just love being looked up to as a junior! Being a member on the varsity teams are great, even though I hate the practices. It seems I never have time for a decent social life or homework. Between algebra, chemistry, Accounting I, and writing my English term paper, having a social life is definitely out of the question. I just found out today we have to start selling magazines for prom. Not only do I have to make money for the big event, but I also have to save my own for a tax and my new chic. I guess I better find a job, maybe I can go apply at McDonalds or Hy-Vee like every other student in Columbus!

Dear Diary

Finally, I feel like I'm in high school!

Classes are getting harder especially Biology and Geometry. I'm sick of cutting up dead bugs and proving proofs (isn't that a little "redundant"!) Mom gave me a hard time about borrowing her car for my stupid! job interview, but I need the money so bad. In football

I got killed as the "Dummy Holder" - that's what they call the little sophomores.

I'm so sick of selling stuff for all the new clubs I'm in, but candy bars aren't too hard to sell. "You don't sell them and you'll end up paying for them" Mr. Younger warns us. But putting on Sweetheart was fun especially since I can stay out later now. This year I can't hide behind being new in order to keep from being involved. Now I feel a little more important.

The Right Combination

"Do you have a pass?", "Where are you going?", "What are you doing in the hallways?", "Shshshhh . . . ", "There are classes in progress!!", "Aaack! My book fell on my head!!"

How often have you heard these words as you have walked through the hallowed halls of Scotus? "Can I have a pass to go get a drink? To the restroom? Locker? Home? Oops, just kidding!!" Using hallways and lockers are a part of everyday life in a student's daily schedule. Stopping in the hall to get books or chat with pals is common practice. Getting a drink to stop pangs of thirst or just to get out of class for a while occurs all the time.

At 12:40 students sometimes slip out of class for 'meetings' or to 'talk to Mrs. Klingelhofer' when in all actuality they are going to bum around the hallways or head into the restrooms. Using hallways and lockers is a traditional social gathering time for students during a hectic day. So . . . next time you're late for school by one minute, Take off your coat . . . run down the hallway to the office . . . tell them your locker is stuck, and then you will no longer be tardy. It works every time!!

- ▼ Sara Sojka and Kelly Beck have a little fun on their way to class.
- ▼ Todd Heimes waits to walk Annette Sueper to class.
- ▼ Amy Whitehead and Thad Rosenthal chat between classes.

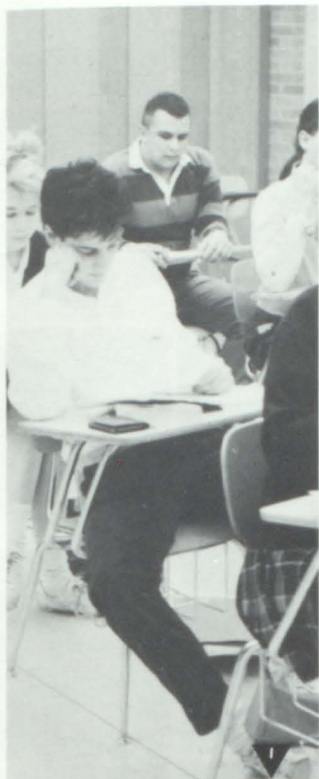

With A Touch Of Class

Monday morning, 8:10 a.m. Two students frantically flip pages, searching for answers to questions that may be on their English test. One student asks the other during a moment of frenzy, "Did you study?" The other replies with a quick grin, "Nope, I never even opened my book!! I don't know what I'm gonna do!!!!"

A common scenario such as this occurs several times during the life of the professional student. Out of all the days of a school week, Monday is the most hectic. Papers are forgotten in lockers, homework is hurriedly finished, tardies are common and the end of the day arrives slowly.

Several types of students can be found in school. There are the students who are prepared for anything. Tests, homework and quizzes are "aced", and homework is finished ahead of time. Then there is the procrastinator who always seems to wait until Sunday at midnight to start a paper that they have had two weeks to prepare.

Whatever type of student, smart or well, you know . . . early or late, good or bad, the faces of '88 make up the squares and angles of a unique year!

- ▼ Jim Schieffer, Becca Toof and Eric Hegi study intently during English.
- ▼ Sharon Dobesh lugs a load of books to class.
- ▼ Larry Horne creates in Basic Art.
- ▼ Christine Horne reads to the preschoolers.
- ▼ Darby Staub works on his papier mâché project in art.

reshmen freshmen freshme

"91" ☺

Darlene Rikol

Craig Robak

Dear Diary,
 This year is my first year in high school, I am a freshman. Everyone said it would be very hard and I would be treated badly. I think they were all wrong, so for this year I like being a freshman. At first I was kind of scared, always worrying that I would be tardy and get into trouble. It really isn't that hard once I got the hang of going to different floors. The scariest time was having to go to my first dance. What would I wear? How would I dance? It didn't turn out as bad as I thought it would, I actually had a great time! I think that being a freshman is pretty cool stuff. We are allowed to chew gum, we get to participate in high school activities, and we are encouraged to join all of the new clubs and organizations. My parents always find me talking on the phone, making plans for the big weekends. Freshmen are still considered the little kids, but I think it is great compared to junior high!

Elements of style

"May I please have your attention for this morning's announcements. A reminder to the student body - as stated in the student handbook, all students must follow the required dress code. Both boys and girls at Scotus are required to dress in a way that reflects the high standards of their school and the importance of the work they do here. Dress, therefore, should be modest and neat at all times.

With this in mind, the Scotus Board, supported by the wishes of the parents, sets forth the following dress code for Scotus students:

Girls are required to wear a specific uniform. This uniform may be purchased at Penney's Department Store. The skirt is a green plaid skirt, which is to be worn not more than one inch above the knee. The required blouse is the plain white blouse of non-sheer material with collar and must be tucked in. Sleeves may be long or short. When a sweater is worn, it must be the green uniform sweater. Girls are permitted to wear solid dark green slacks which match the sweater. Slacks must not have rivets in the rear pockets. Shoes, boots, or sandals are to be worn and socks are required.

Boys are to wear dress trousers to school that are in good condition. Pastels or bright colors are prohibited. No jeans are to be worn, nor are extremely faded, ragged, or novelty trousers are to be worn. Trousers must not have rivets in the rear pockets. Trousers having loops will require a belt. Shirts must have a collar and shall have no printing on them other than the school name and/or insignia. No sweatshirts, tee-shirts, mesh shirts, novelty shirts, are to be worn. All shirts are to be worn tucked in. Shoes, boots, or sandals are to be worn and socks are required (no anklets).

Violators will be subject to detention. This concludes this morning's announcements."

▼ Michelle Guernsey, Patty Beck, and Darlyn Valish are dressed in Scotus apparel.

Dear Diary,
 we are finally the oldest in
 Jr. High!! This year has been fun so far - I hope it stays that way. I am so excited! The most popular boy in the 8th grade was starring at me today. I have flipped! I love that class! We P.E. today. I am so nervous! We are reading To Kill a Mockingbird in English. It is pretty interesting so far. All of the kids are going

Clara's Cookin'

"How many? Vegetable? One or Two? Jello? Gravy or both?"

Do these words sound familiar? If they don't, they should. Have you ever really paid attention to what you are hearing Monday through Friday around 11:00 to 11:30 p.m. each week? People are never actually in tune with what the cooks are saying. They can ask a student if they want beans, and the students would say "2 please."

It is obvious, when walking into Clara's kitchen, who is really hungry and who is on the starvation diet. The ones, such as the big football players, that are really hungry will have five pieces of pizza, four grilled cheeses, seven cookies, or ten pieces of garlic bread on their tray. The people on diets, usually girls, will have maybe a cracker, dish of jello, an apple slice, or a few leaves of lettuce in their bowl. The classic tray would have every type of food from the hot lunch line plus a piled high salad, going back for thirds within five minutes. A big challenge for most students each morning is guessing what the cooks made for lunch. With various suggestions, what they get for lunch that day will remain a mystery until 11:00 or 11:30!

What's for Lunch??

The typical menu:

Mon. Chicken fried steak, rice or mashed potatoes, buns, and jello

Tues. Hot dogs -n- Runzas, curly cue fries, pink swirled cake, and corn

Wed. Lasagna, corn, brownies, and garlic bread

Thurs. Hamburgers, tator tots, sugar cookies, peas, and vegetable beef soup

Fri. Tuna casserole, spaghetti, glazed doughnuts, and mixed vegetables

Extra Table: Peanut butter and butter sandwiches, tossed salads, juice (Fridays), carrots, and leftover desserts or fruit.

Dear Diary,
 Scotus is a blast! The teachers are nice too. Last year we had a crabby teacher so this year has been great! I went out for football and basketball, my two favorite sports. This year is way different than last years. The classes are harder but the teachers are neat. The lockers were a new idea. I have two and they're a cinch. I especially like where my locker is, right next to the cutest girl in the 7th grade! I can't wait till tonight, there's a girls basket-ball game, me and my friends are all going. I have to come home right away though, I have a ton of homework. I can't forget to tell my mom to pick me up later - I have detention. I was throwing snowballs and hit one of the teachers in the head. I even knocked off his hat, he wasn't to happy though. There goes the bell...

involved?

How many 'extra-curriculars' are offered at Scotus? Definitely enough when one considers the wide-variety of clubs to choose from. Whether students' interests are religious (Campus Ministry); 'outspoken' (Speech Team, drama productions); financial (F.B.L.A.); legal (Mock Trial); 'star-crossed' (Astronomy Club); musical (Girls Glee/ Concert Choir/ Swing Choir/Band); newsworthy (Journalism/ Yearbook); or honorary (N.H.S./ Thespians/ S-Club) — they can all find an activity to suit their tastes.

There are also special groups such as County Government day and One-Act competition that help keep students involved.

"On earth, as it is in Heaven"

"The Team this year was the largest we have ever had. Because of that we had a lot more activities than we have in the past," said Campus Ministry director Fr. Wayne Pavela.

The numerous programs kept the 140 students and 29 faculty members busy throughout the year. The garden was again a very successful project.

The crop walk, canned food drive, and clothing drive were other community service projects. The crop walk raised over $2000.00 and the food drive raised 1236 cans.

Many times are set aside for spiritual renewals. Celebrate Life Week, Church Unity Week, and Catholic Schools week, along with the all school retreat, each class' retreat, the all school masses, and prayer services were important to the students.

The Campus Ministry team also supports various social events throughout the year. The welcome barbeque, pancake feed, chili feed, passover supper, fish fry, Mardi Gras, and the Halloween and Christmas parties give the Campus Ministers a chance to get together and work for a common cause.

One of the newest ideas this year was the addition of the Campus Ministry sweatshirts. The sweatshirts were made available to all the members.

Sophomore Tim Schmitt enjoys being part of the Team. "It helps us to be closer to God, and makes it more fun," he says. "It's nice how so much of the public also supports what we do."

They Shall gather to Speak

This year's student council set goals to promote civic awareness. These goals included the development of citizenship within the student body, community service, local and government, projects, and fundraisers for local and national charities.

Sponsored by Tom Salyard, the student council participated in and organized projects beginning with Bicentennial Day, the two hundredth anniversary of the United States Constitution.

Next came a Help Keep Columbus Beautiful Drive. The student council worked with the Columbus Committee to promote cleanliness in order to keep Columbus Beautiful. Cash for specific product labels raised money for this project.

Jean's Day was another of the projects sponsored by the student council. In sync with the annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, the project helped to raise money for those handicapped with Muscular Dystrophy.

An overnight State Student Council Workshop was attended by Doug VanDyke, Nicki Votava, Julie Sleddens, and Steve Rhode.

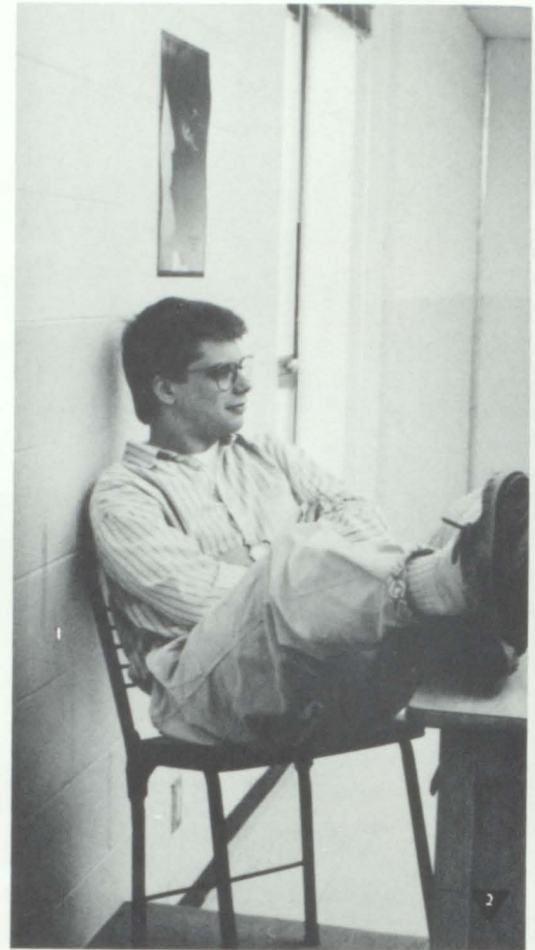

Through the student council, a number of projects were fulfilled to help improve the community and educate the student body to help foster the development of citizenship within the school.

The National Honor Society is made up of members who excel in scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

Beginning in September, the group had a special induction of the new members. Throughout the year, the group performed a number of activities catering to the needs of others.

In December the group addressed Christmas cards for the elderly at Mory's Haven. The members also helped the Mothers Club with their annual Christmas Botique held in December. During the home basketball games the group held raffles for cakes. The group also sponsored a Teacher Recognition day to honor the teachers.

Following spring, a senior recognition and installation of new officers arrived.

Astronomy compels the soul to look upwards

Astronomy is the scientific study of the universe beyond the earth.

In teaching about today's society and the world we live in, astronomy plays an important role in the daily life of each of us.

The Scotus Astronomy Club is a group primarily devoted to encouraging appreciation for the cosmos. The club practiced two goals: first, to observe the night sky; second, to become involved in astronomical observing.

The group observed the night sky to locate stars, constellations, and other astronomical phenomenon in order to discover the world of astronomy.

The German Club takes time out to have a little fun during a meeting.

The Scotus German Club includes the German I and German II classes. Travis Bock and Mary Fehringler acted as co-presidents for the twenty-five member group.

The German II class made a movie which acted as entertainment for their annual fundraiser, called a Wein Probe. The fundraiser involved several different types of wines.

Another project undertaken by the German Club was the German Olympics in which the German I and German II classes challenged each other.

During March the club attended Foreign Language Day at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln. After entering a poster and name tag competition, the group received honors including two superiors, two excellents, and one very good.

An "Octave" Above the "Rest"

The Scotus vocal music department began the year with the annual fall music concert, one of the three performed yearly. Between concerts, the vocal groups prepared for the Boystown Choral Clinic which they have attended annually.

The Christmas music concert was again combined with the band's Christmas concert for a evening full of entertainment.

A new clinic attended this year was the Lakeview Choral Clinic in which Girls' Glee and Concert Choir were taped to be shown on Columbus Cable T.V.

All music students competed at the District Music Contest where the following ratings were received: Double Mixed Sextet - 1, Concert Choir - 2, Girls' Glee - 2, Girls' Triple Trio - 2, Miscellaneous Ensemble - 2, Girls Double Sextet - 2.

The spring vocal music concert finished the year featuring a special performance by "The Last Ticket."

"The Creature Creeps" by Jack Sharkey was performed by members of the Scotus Drama Department on April 21 in the Memorial Hall gym. The play was directed by Mrs. Sandie Bernt and assistant directed by Brenda Dohmen and Amy Whitehead. Sound effects were done by Colleen Poe and Kim Kouma.

The play was set in the late 1800's in the creepy old parlor of the Castle Von Von Blitzen in the heart of the Carpathian mountains of Transylvania.

What was the plot, you say? Besides poking fun - as well as "pun" - at horror shows, the villagers, not to mention the newcomers to the castle, want to know who Baron Von Blitzen really is, what goes on in his secret laboratory, when they will be able to leave the dreary castle, where Donald has hidden the "other parts" of his experiment, why there are hideous shrieks coming from the cellar, and — most of all — how the Baron will carry out the rest of his masterful plan.

All the Worlds a Stage . . .

The Drama II class, as a group project, performed a I-Act play. This year's group performed Glimpses, a compilation of the original works of thirteen young playwrights.

The Drama II class chose ten of the thirty-two scenes to perform at conference and district I-Act competitions. Using limited props, scenery, and costume, the students were able to act out their scenes with simplified realism. They also used the Greek Chorus technique of chanting and acting out background scenes.

The I-Act Glimpses pointed out problems such as suicide, alcoholism, and unplanned pregnancy. On the whole, the play projected the feelings of youth involved in these types of real life situations.

The group placed third at an annual conference competition, and fourth and fifth at districts, thereby completing the year.

Working for Perfection

"Work as if there were - to the very last minute - a chance to lose." This motto illustrates the determination of the 1987-88 Scotus Speech Team.

The forty six members of the team started off the season with a contest at Platte College. The team placed 1st at a Newman Grove competition and received 2nd place at a Raymond Central meet. Scotus placed 1st in Conference competition at Omaha Holy Name for the eighth time in nine years. The top two competitors in each individual event and each group performance went on to the District meet in Albion. Ten members finished in the top two places at Districts to qualify for state.

Traci Duren, Becca Toof, Ron Zornes, Suzanna George, Sara Sojka, Dan Parolek, Jill Hefti, Carie Sapp, Darlyn Valish, and Larry Backes ventured to Lincoln with hopes of smooth and successful performances.

To Speech coach, Mrs. Sandie Bernt the main accomplishment was "that they were open to coaching suggestions and were willing to put in long hours, therefore they perfected their work".

▼ In the bus on the way to a contest, Sarah Whitehead beams with anticipation.

Act well your part

"Act well your part, therein all honor lies." To the Scotus Chapter of Thespians this motto is the guide for the entire organization. Thespians held initiation week in January in which all charter members were accepted. Based upon cooperation, knowledge of rules and history of the organization; logic-problem solving, and courage.

As a service to the student body, staff, and secretaries, Thespian members take turns saying morning and afternoon announcements. On April 27, the members along with sponsor Mrs. Sandie Bernt, took their annual trip to the Firehouse Dinner Theater to see a matinee performance of "The Nerd". This play helped Thespian members to realize how important it is to "act well your part".

With liberty and justice for all

This year there were two Scotus Mock Trial teams — the green and the white, each made up of eight team members sponsored by Mr. Jack Sadle. Each team had to prepare a defense and a prosecution case for simulated trials of the Liberty Line High School newspaper.

The white team defeated Monroe, Albion, Genoa, and Columbus High on the road to the district competition. The green team defeated Monroe, Humphrey, Cedar Rapids, Schuyler, and the Scotus white team to earn their trip to the state competition in Lincoln where they placed third.

Getting Down to Business

Future Business Leaders of America, one of the largest organizations at Scotus, started out the year by selling boxes of candy as a fund raiser. After many postponed rain-dates, the annual hayrack ride and bon fire was held north of town. As the year progressed, a team of select business students placed 2nd at a business competition day in Leigh. A FBLA sponsored lip sync contest was held with first, second, and third places awarded to the top contestants based on lip sync, originality, and general appearance. Ron Zornes and Brad Blum received 1st place for their performance of "Dentist". Proceeds from the admission fees were donated to the United Way.

On April 7-9, FBLA members attended the State Leadership Conference in Omaha. They took business related tests and attended seminars at the conference. The Scotus Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America awarded a scholarship to a senior member planning to further their education in business.

Writing maketh an exact woman

Journalism class to many people looks like sitting around talking and doing nothing. Our staff of 1987-1988 soon discovered that it takes self-discipline and hard work.

The staff started out the year brainstorming and gathering ideas for the newspaper. Deciding that the name of the paper would remain The Rock, the staff sent out four issues during the year. One of the first major accomplishments was going out to various Columbus businesses trying to sell ads for the newspaper and yearbook. These ads plus the students purchasing yearbooks are the staff's major source of funds. This year there were also happy and personal ads used to help in the many expenses.

"Starting out the year with many ideas, we decided on our theme and everything fell into place." said Jill Pilakowski, one of the yearbook editors. The year required many important deadlines to be met at various times. Meeting the deadlines and accomplishing goals, the year went by very fast, and it proved to be a year of self-discipline and hard work.

We've got Spirit, yes we do.

Looking up at the crowd during the games of 1987-1988, a person could see and feel all of the spirit floating around. Our organized pep club may have decreased in size this year, but the general spirit from the fans definitely made up for it. "Pep club has really gone down hill, but with all of the students and parents spirit, it makes up for the loss." said Jan Euteneuer, president of pep club.

With a majority of the students and fans cheering for the team, a giant pep club has developed. There may not be a designated sponsor or captain for this pep club, but everyone cheers on their own.

As everyone's spirit is overflowing, in a sense, it warms the field, gym, or wherever the competition may be happening. Our pep club's spirit is like icing on a cake.

The Beat of a Different Drummer

The Senior High Band along with the 1987-88 Flag Corps High Team have proved in many ways to be successful throughout the school year.

Becoming involved with different competitions, the band kept improving each time. They supported various school activities such as: football, volleyball, basketball, and pep rallies. Besides performing at all of these activities, they also found time to have concerts.

The Flag Corps Team performed various times with the band. They went to Hastings for a competition. They also performed many times on the football field during the season. "Working with our own routines and the band helped in making the team feel more a part of the overall support." said Jan Euteneuer, captain of the Flag Corps Team.

What is meant by the word "dance"? Dance is a noun which means movement in rhythm, usually in time with music. Dances at Scotus, however, go far above and beyond that definition.

Homecoming, the first dance of the year, is seen as an exciting time for freshmen to experience their first "official" high school dance. It is also a memorable "first of the last" dances for the senior class.

Sweetheart is the dance that introduces the spring season of traditional romance. This dance becomes the perfect opportunity for new relationships to blossom.

At the end of the school year, juniors and seniors escort their dates to the most formal event of the year - Prom.

Throughout the year informal dances, known as "tape dances", are hosted by various organizations.

MUSIC . . .

A Time To Rock

THE ROCK REPORT

"Here I go again on my own . . . walkin' down the only road I'll ever know . . . here I go again . . . here I go . . ." Here I Go Again rockin' down the only road I know is another familiar thought that races through the minds of Scotus students, for in 1988 the music Couldn't Have Been Better. From soft rock to heavy metal mania, music gives students a Reason to Live and Faith that there will always be more to come. When it comes to rock n' roll, some students listen to it INXS. Others listen to music while studying for tests or doing homework. After they find out their grade they say, "Should Have Known Better than to study with the stereo on!!!" The cycle repeats itself again as students Rock and Roll All Night and then try to study for tests all day. Without music it would definitely be The End Of The World As We know It!!!

"Everywhere you go there'll be music playin', records playin', dancin' . . . we'll be dancin' in the . . ." Another type of musical entertainment students enjoy are dances. Starting off the year with a Homecoming dance got everyone into the dancing mood. Joe Blood from Z-92 added an attraction that got the dance off to a great start.

Then came Sweetheart dance which swept everyone off their feet through a Tunnel of Love!!!

"That's all I wanted, somethin' special, somethin' sacred . . . just what I wanted . . . Sometimes I think I should . . ."

"Prom arrived in a splash of color. Beautiful gowns, shining faces, and wandering eyes were reminiscent of a night when dates were kept wondering, "Is this Love?"

"C'mon and get a taste . . . C'mon and get a taste of Runza . . . at Kentucky Fried Chicken, we do chicken right!!! . . . There's sunny skies at 8:10 a.m. and today is going to be a great day!!! And now for some hits with Def Lepard and Animal . . ."

Jammin' on the way to school is one way students can get themselves fully awake and ready to go. If a car radio isn't readily available, a "Boombox" will take care of the problem in a minute. Tape decks were also popular. These devices provide a relatively inexpensive way of listening to favorite songs and artists.

One of the most exciting and fun ways of listening to favorite songs is to make a road trip to Omaha or Lincoln to see a concert. Several Scotus students attended concerts such as KISS, R.E.M., and Aerosmith.

"Say you will . . . Say you will . . . make up your mind . . . Say you will . . ." A variety of music appealed to students for several reasons. Marin Melcher states, "Music is a type of healing drug for the emotional wreck."

"Schools out for the summer . . . schools out forever . . . no more teachers . . . no more books . . . no more . . ." All through Spring, students can be found washing cars, mowing lawns, or enjoying the spring weather. Through it all music can be heard drifting through the air . . . "Let's go surfin' now . . . everybodys learnin' how . . . come on and safari with me . . ."

HOMECOMING

... A Time To Remember

Q. Why was this year's Homecoming seen as a time to remember?
A. Homecoming week was filled with many memorable moments. The pep club organized Spirit Week and most people dressed according to the theme of the day.

For example, Thursday saw students out-of-dress-code and in some outrageous costumes depicting the sixties era - everything from long hair to go-go boots were the fashion for the day.

Other activities were also used to get the school "in the mood" for the occasion. The Homecoming mass on Friday was a moving one for the seniors who knew this would be their last Homecoming.

The mood picked up as preparations for the dance were taken care of by members of the senior class who worked their decorations around the theme "In the Still of the Night". After a victory over Crete and the coronation of Queen Traci Duren and King Mike Horne on the football field, everyone was ready to celebrate by dancing the night away with Z-92 disc jockey Joe Blood.

Therefore, the first formal dance for the freshmen, the "first of the last" dance for the seniors, and Homecoming for all those in between was one that will not soon be forgotten.

 ▼ Rick Horne and Dean Valish watch as Matt Rinkol tries to catch a flying sweetheart candy in his mouth.

Q. What dance is centered around the theme of romance? A. Sweetheart was held on the 12th of February - just before Valentine's Day - and the 'love-bug' feeling was captured by those who attended.

Six king and queen candidates were chosen from a list of those seniors who were not candidates for homecoming. Freshmen through seniors then voted on who would eventually be crowned.

To fund the occasion, sophomores decorated the cafeteria according to the Sweetheart theme. "We decorated to the theme 'The Tunnel of Love,'" says sophomore Diana Sypal. "It was great because everyone worked together to get finished."

After the 82-65 victory over Raymond Central, many crowded into the Memorial Hall gym to see Annette Sueper and Greg Hunter crowned royalty. When asked to express her feelings after being voted queen Annette answered, "I was shocked and just started laughing". This, as many students know, is a typical response for this year's Sweetheart queen.

Following the coronation, students gathered in Clara's transformed country kitchen to join in the romance-filled evening. "The decorations were pretty. The sophomore class did a good job considering it was their first time to decorate for a major dance" said junior Carie Sapp, one of the many students who attended this special event.

Mike Graus and Paul Placzek added an extra "love-touch" with their deejayed music which made the night of Sweetheart a time for love.

PROM . . .

A Time For Elegance

Q. What made this year's Prom more than the average night out?

A. "Ballroom Blitz" - the Prom theme chosen by the junior class accurately described this year's night of elegance. The event was held at Johnnie's Steakhouse and the dinner consisted of prime rib, green beans, and baked potato with cheesecake for dessert.

Heading the ceremony were junior M-cees Ron Wessel and Jenny Doné who wished, in a humorous and poetic form, the seniors well next year at college and expressed to them how much they would be missed. Representing the senior class was Cory Borer who, with a speech supplied by Kelly Beck, expressed thanks to the juniors.

The decorations, based in silver and blue tones, added sparkle and pizzazz to the evening's night life theme. Behind the dance floor was a backdrop of New York at night which added to the illusion of elegance.

Perhaps the most exciting and appreciated element to the success of the evening was the dee-jayed music of "Ultrasound" and the debut of Scotus' band "The Last Ticket" (consisting of members: Larry Backes, Mike Horne, Tom Jackson, and Joe Korgie). These last two additions made the night one of fun, dancing, and memories. Combined with the sparkling gowns in a rainbow of colors amidst matching cummerbunds and bow-ties with an occasional set of tails, the event was surely one of elegance.

- ▼ Toastmaster Ron Wessel and Toastmistress Jenny Done read a prom poem as Angie Vetick waits to hear more.
- ▼ No one has to ask Traci Tworek if she had fun at prom, her smile says it all.

What are sports at Scotus? Sports at Scotus range anywhere from playing football, volleyball, basketball, golf, or running in cross country and track. Sports take up many hours and are not all fun and games. Time and hard work is spent lifting weights before school, practicing after school, driving to and from games or meets not to mention the actual participation. Athletes, coaches, and fans alike are entranced by the winning tradition of Scotus for another year. From the star athletes, to the "benchwarmers" down to the fans sports are a very real and important part of the year.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Throughout the year many students were recognized for their athlete ability by being named to All-Conference, All-State, and honorable mention. These few select student have represented Scotus and the Columbus community very well.

▼ Chris Orr, Mary Fehring, and Pam Hroza were selected to the All-Conference Volleyball Team.

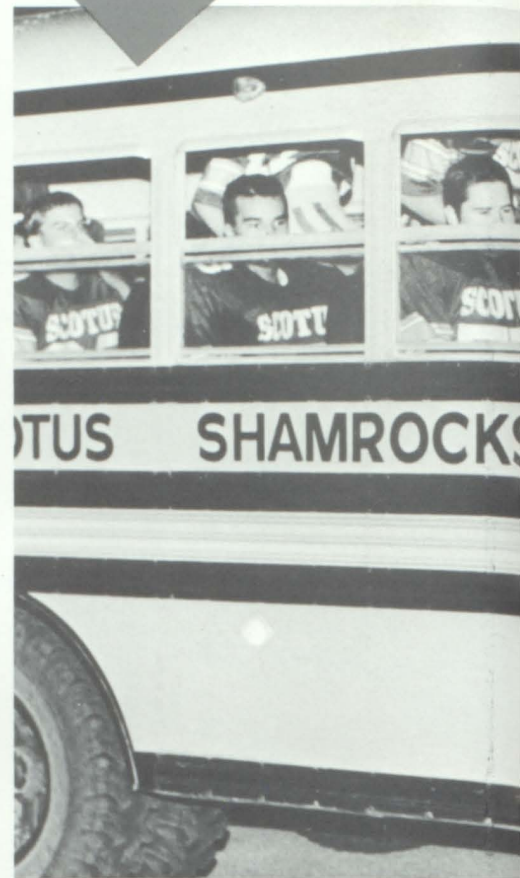

▼ All-Conference First Team/ Jim Schieffer shoots for two.
 ▼ First Team All-Conference: Steve Soulliere, Jim Schieffer, and Doug VanDyke. Honorable Mention: Mark Soulliere.
 ▼ Chris Orr was selected by the Omaha World Herald to the All-Class All-State girls' basketball team. Chris was also on First Team All-Conference Basketball team. Mary Fehringer was given honorable mention.

SUDDEN IMPACT

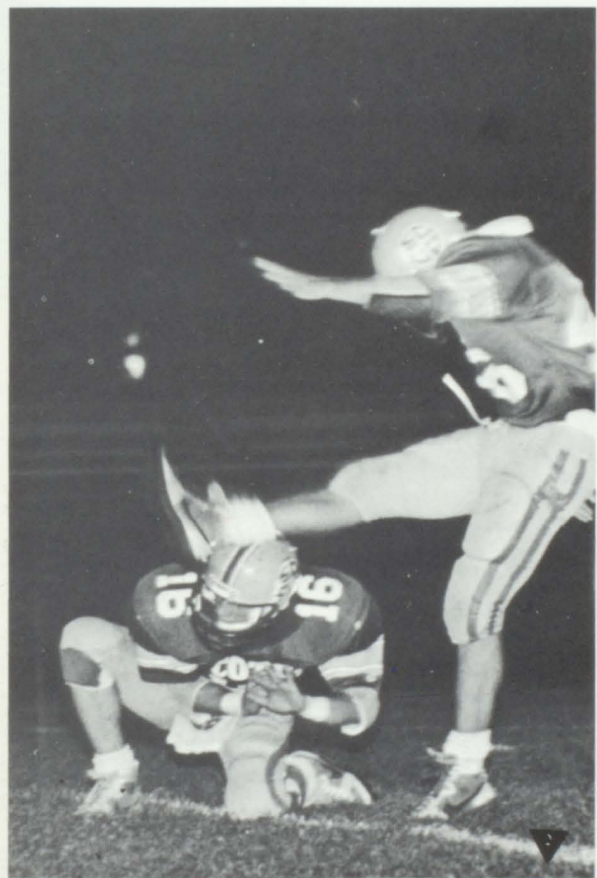

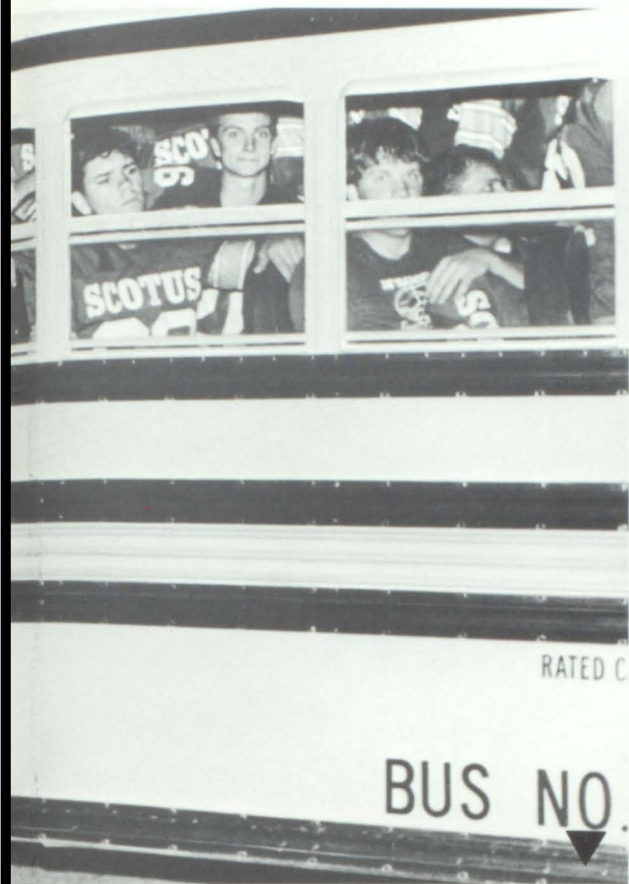

Hardwork, dedication, and determination gave the 1987 football team a successful season. Long practices and hot days in the weightroom payed off when it was time for the Shamrocks to hit the football field.

The season got off to a good start with a 47-0 victory over Omaha St. Joe. From the first game until the last game of regular season, the Shamrocks remained undefeated. During that time the Shamrocks defeated such rivals as David City Aquinus and Schyler Warriors. The Shamrocks' only loss during regular season went to Fremont Bergan. The Shamrocks were defeated 28-30.

It was then time for Scotus to travel to West Point for the first round of the 1987 football playoffs. The Shamrocks fell to West Point 7-15. Senior Doug VanDyke said, "In the last two games it was fourth down and 1 yard to go, and we didn't get the first down."

- ▼ Jerry Szatko runs past a Crete defender.
- ▼ The Scotus linemen await the attack of the Cardinals.
- ▼ Smiling Greg Rief agrees with Todd Heimes as he says, "you betcha."

▼ A busload of Shamrocks make their way back to School after the homecoming game.
 ▼ Larry Backes holds the football for Jerry Szatko's attempted field goal.

SMART SET

At the beginning of the year, there were many unanswered questions about the new 1987 volleyball team. One, of course, was: Can they defend their unbeatable title and once again become State Champions? People naturally became uncertain because the team lacked experience. However, the faith of the fans and the determination of the team made them strive even more to be "back in the high life again."

The Shamrocks obtained their winning streak throughout their whole successful season. However, the Shamrocks fell short of their dream. Tears were shed by the team when they were defeated in the finals of the district game. Although their dream to be State Champions was not reached, they had nothing to be ashamed of. They showed their strength, talent, and determination through the outstanding record of 20-1. They had something to prove, and they did it by never giving up.

MAKING TRACKS

"O.K. girls, Stretch! then we're gonna run six miles of hills, four sets of sprints, run with the bus, and then possibly . . ." Imagine hearing these dreaded words everyday by the girl's cross country coach, Mr. Dan Mahoney, and running in unpredictable weather ranging anywhere from a blistering 100° to blizzard conditions. This shows only a small portion of how much strenuous work and dedication went into a daily practice.

The hard work does pay off, as the girls proved to have another successful season, returning four veteran seniors; and one new senior, Jenny Lassek, six juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen.

Thus, the largest team in the history of Scotus began the season running for the Olympic Torch Run in August. Starting in the heat of early morning at Schuyler, the members individually ran with the torch anywhere from two to four miles at a time. The run ended in Fremont where they were filmed on T.V. for Channel 12.

The season officially opened with the Albion Invite in which the team placed second. As the season progressed, they did good and won the North Bend and Scotus Invitationals, and accomplished personal bests.

Despite several injuries, the team placed second at the District meet on the home course and won their third consecutive trip to the state meet in Kearney where they placed sixteenth.

During the season, a U.S. map was posted in the locker room, and the daily mileage was marked across it. When the season ended, the girls had run the distance from Chicago to Los Angeles, Calif. - a total of over 2,100 miles of challenging courses and country roads.

FULL STRIDE

"Come on fellas, let's run a little bit harder!" These encouraging words by the boy's cross country coach, Fr. Wayne Pavella, could be heard daily in practice as they put forth a lot of hard work and efforts to make the 1987 CC season a success.

The team returned four seniors, three juniors, one sophomore, and one freshman.

Chad Labenz and Dan Parolek began their training season early, as they attended a one week cross country camp at South Dakota State College in July. During the week they attended many sessions teaching different running techniques and averaged running ten miles a day. Chad Labenz said, "It was fun, but it was a lot of hard work, and a learning experience."

To open the season, the boys placed fourth at the Albion Invite. As the practices and meets continued to grow more intense, the team remained fairly consistent as they also placed fourth at the Scotus Invite and the Conference meet.

The team's greatest success happened when they placed second at the District meet on the home course, which earned them a trip to the state meet in Kearney. The Qualifying team consisted of Kelly Beck, Steve Soulliere, Dan Parolek, Chad Labenz, Robbie Wade, and Darby Staub.

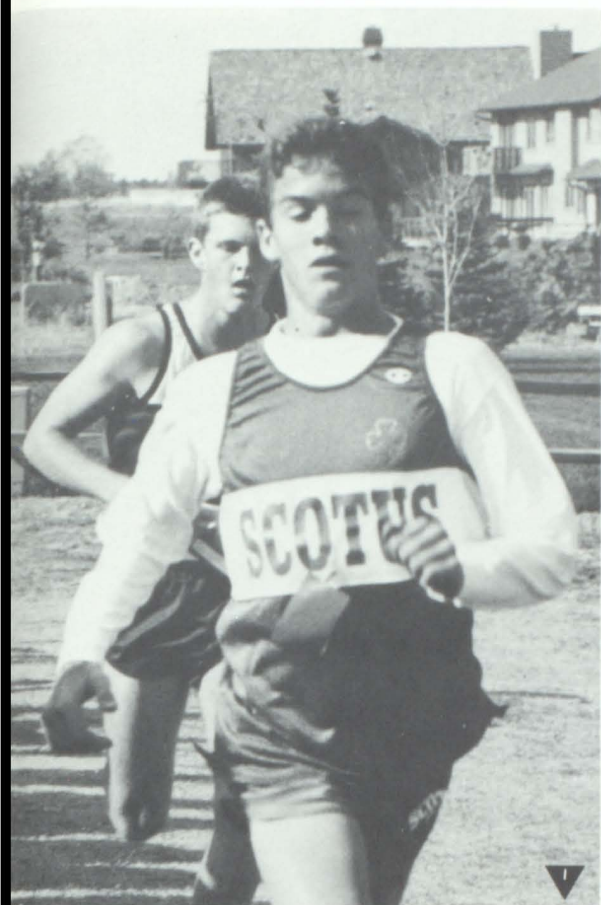

Although the team wanted to have a better season, Chad Labenz said, "It went well, and we'll definitely do better next year, Cross country is great!"

The 1987-88 basketball season was one full of ups and downs. Shamrocks met with Boystown for the season opener. After an opening loss to Boystown, the Shamrocks went on a five game winning streak.

When it was time for the Shamrocks to travel to Wahoo for the Conference Tournament, they were ready for their opponents. The Shamrocks found themselves in the finals of Conference Tournament. The game against St. Alberts ended 47-31 and the Shamrocks took the second place trophy.

After five more regular season games, the Shamrocks traveled to Norfolk for the first round of districts. During this game, the Schuyler Warriors defeated the Shamrocks 60-37. The 1987-88 basketball season ended with a loss, but the season was one full of victories.

HOT SHOTS

The girls on the basketball team combined all of their individual talents to produce an outstanding year. It was the first year in girls' basketball history that a trip to State was earned. The determination to win and all of the hard work that was put in each day at practice paid off in the end.

The season started with a loss against Lincoln Pius. This did not upset the Lady Shamrocks, it in turn made them work harder. The season was filled with many victories and only a couple letdowns. The support of the fans and the confidence of the team worked together to come home with a District win over Hartington Cedar Catholic.

March 3 the Shamrocks traveled to Lincoln, Nebraska for the State Tournament. The team was defeated in the first round by Ord. Although they were not State Champions their determination and success is respected by all. The 1988 girls' basketball team is an honorable group and the first to earn a State trip.

So it is easy to see that through a successful regular season, a District Championship, and a trip to State the Lady Shamrocks carried on the winning tradition.

▼ Pam Hroza is determined to gain two points.

Chris Orr goes up for a jump shot.

▼ Mary Fehringer concentrates on the basket.

GET SET . . .

The 1988 girls' track team showed much determination and holds a lot of promise for the years to come. Hardwork and long practices proved to strengthen the girls and lead them to many individual and group victories. The few seniors that participated showed great leadership. The underclassmen contributed a great deal and will continue to carry on the Shamrock pride in the future years.

The team began their season with a trip to Crete where they placed third at the Doane Invite. On March 30 the traditional Scotus Relays were held and the girls took first place. Throughout the season the team received honorable placings. Omaha Flangan was the setting for the Conference Meet. The team placed second. On a hot May 12, the team traveled to Arlington for the District Meet. The team finished third and had some spectacular performances coming from Mary Fehring second in the high jump, Pam Hroza second in the 300 low hurdles and second in the 100 hurdles, Becky Puetz first in shotput, Annette Sueper first in the 2 mile run, and Steph Wiese third in the 2 mile run. Each of these girls earned a trip to Omaha Burke for the State Track Meet where they received 12th place.

▼ Jenny Naughtin uses every muscle in her body to release the shotput.

▼ Pam Hroza and two Seward hurdlers are even after clearing the first hurdle.

Dedication and a strong desire for success helped the 1988 boys' track team to achieve many things.

The boys' track season began in March with practices. Following a couple of weeks of practice the boys traveled to Boystown for the Boystown invitational. This was the beginning of the Shamrocks search for success. After Boystown meet the Shamrocks would face many tough opponents in Invitationals, Triangulars, and Duals. Some of the teams they faced were Flanigan, Elkhorn, and Grand Island Northwest.

Success was found by the Shamrocks during the Knights of Columbus meet. The boys' track team finished first at this meet. Soon it was time for the Shamrocks to go to the Conference meet and then to the Districts, and on to State.

- ▼ Jason Zach makes his first step out of the starting blocks.
- ▼ Jeff Niedbalski successfully clears the high jump bar.
- ▼ Bill Orr runs side by side with an Elkhorn opponent.

FULL SWING

Golf is a sport that requires a sharp eye, a precise swing, and a patient state of mind to make a victory.

The 1988 golf team consisting of fifteen members, and coached by Frank Spenceri.

Led by senior Jim Scheiffer, the team held success all season and showed consistency as they won all their dual competitions and the Scotus Invitational. As practice, dedication, and determination continued to intensify, the team moved on to the Conference and District meets, and earned a respectable second and third place which gave them a trip to the state meet in Alliance, Ne.

Although five senior members on the squad will be greatly missed next year, success is sure to continue in years to come, as the underclassmen continue to improve with experience and more practice.

▼ Steve Soulliere concentrates on the hole.
▼ Pat Diedrich prepares for a precise swing.

Graduation . . . a day that holds a special place in every graduate's heart. But what made the occasion even more memorable for the class of 1988?

First of all, Fr. Joe Miksch — the senior's long-lost and much-loved junior religion teacher — was nominated as the homily speaker and he readily granted the request.

Another touching moment occurred when the seniors presented a rose to their parents.

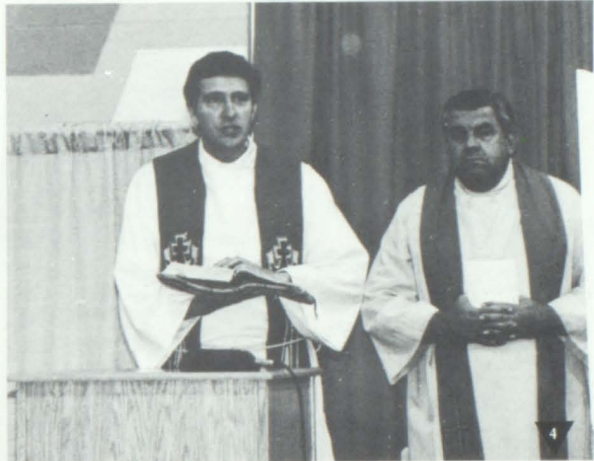

A bright spot in the ceremony came with the presentation of the "Spirit" award to Stephanie Micek and the "Outstanding Service" award to Mr. Frank Spenceri.

Overall, graduation proved to be an emotional event for parents, teachers, students, and audience alike.

- ▼ Cory Borer, Larry Backes, and Chris Becher patiently wait to walk into the graduation ceremony.
- ▼ Half of the graduating class of 1988.
- ▼ The second half of the graduating class of 1988.
- ▼ Organization members take up the offertory.
- ▼ Senior girls in music classes sing Our Father at graduation mass.

The Time . . .

- ▼ Members of the 1988 graduating class wait to receive their diplomas.
- ▼ Graduation day was a happy one for all, especially Mary Fehringer.
- ▼ Stephanie Micek received the Spirit of Scotus award.
- ▼ Father Joe Miksch gives the homily at mass.
- ▼ Traci Duren and her mother share a touching moment.
- ▼ Doug Sokol, Jon Hamling, and Eric Hegi rejoice after the graduation ceremony.

What are ads to the Scotus annual? All advertising, whether it be of a business or a senior, is greatly appreciated. Thank-you for making the 1987-88 annual possible.

The journalism staff offered senior parents the opportunity to advertise their "special" senior on parent pages! These creative ads use pictures of seniors, good luck wishes, and anything else parents wanted to make this a yearbook for seniors to treasure. This new addition to the yearbook has put the final touches to bring it all together.

GUESS WHO?

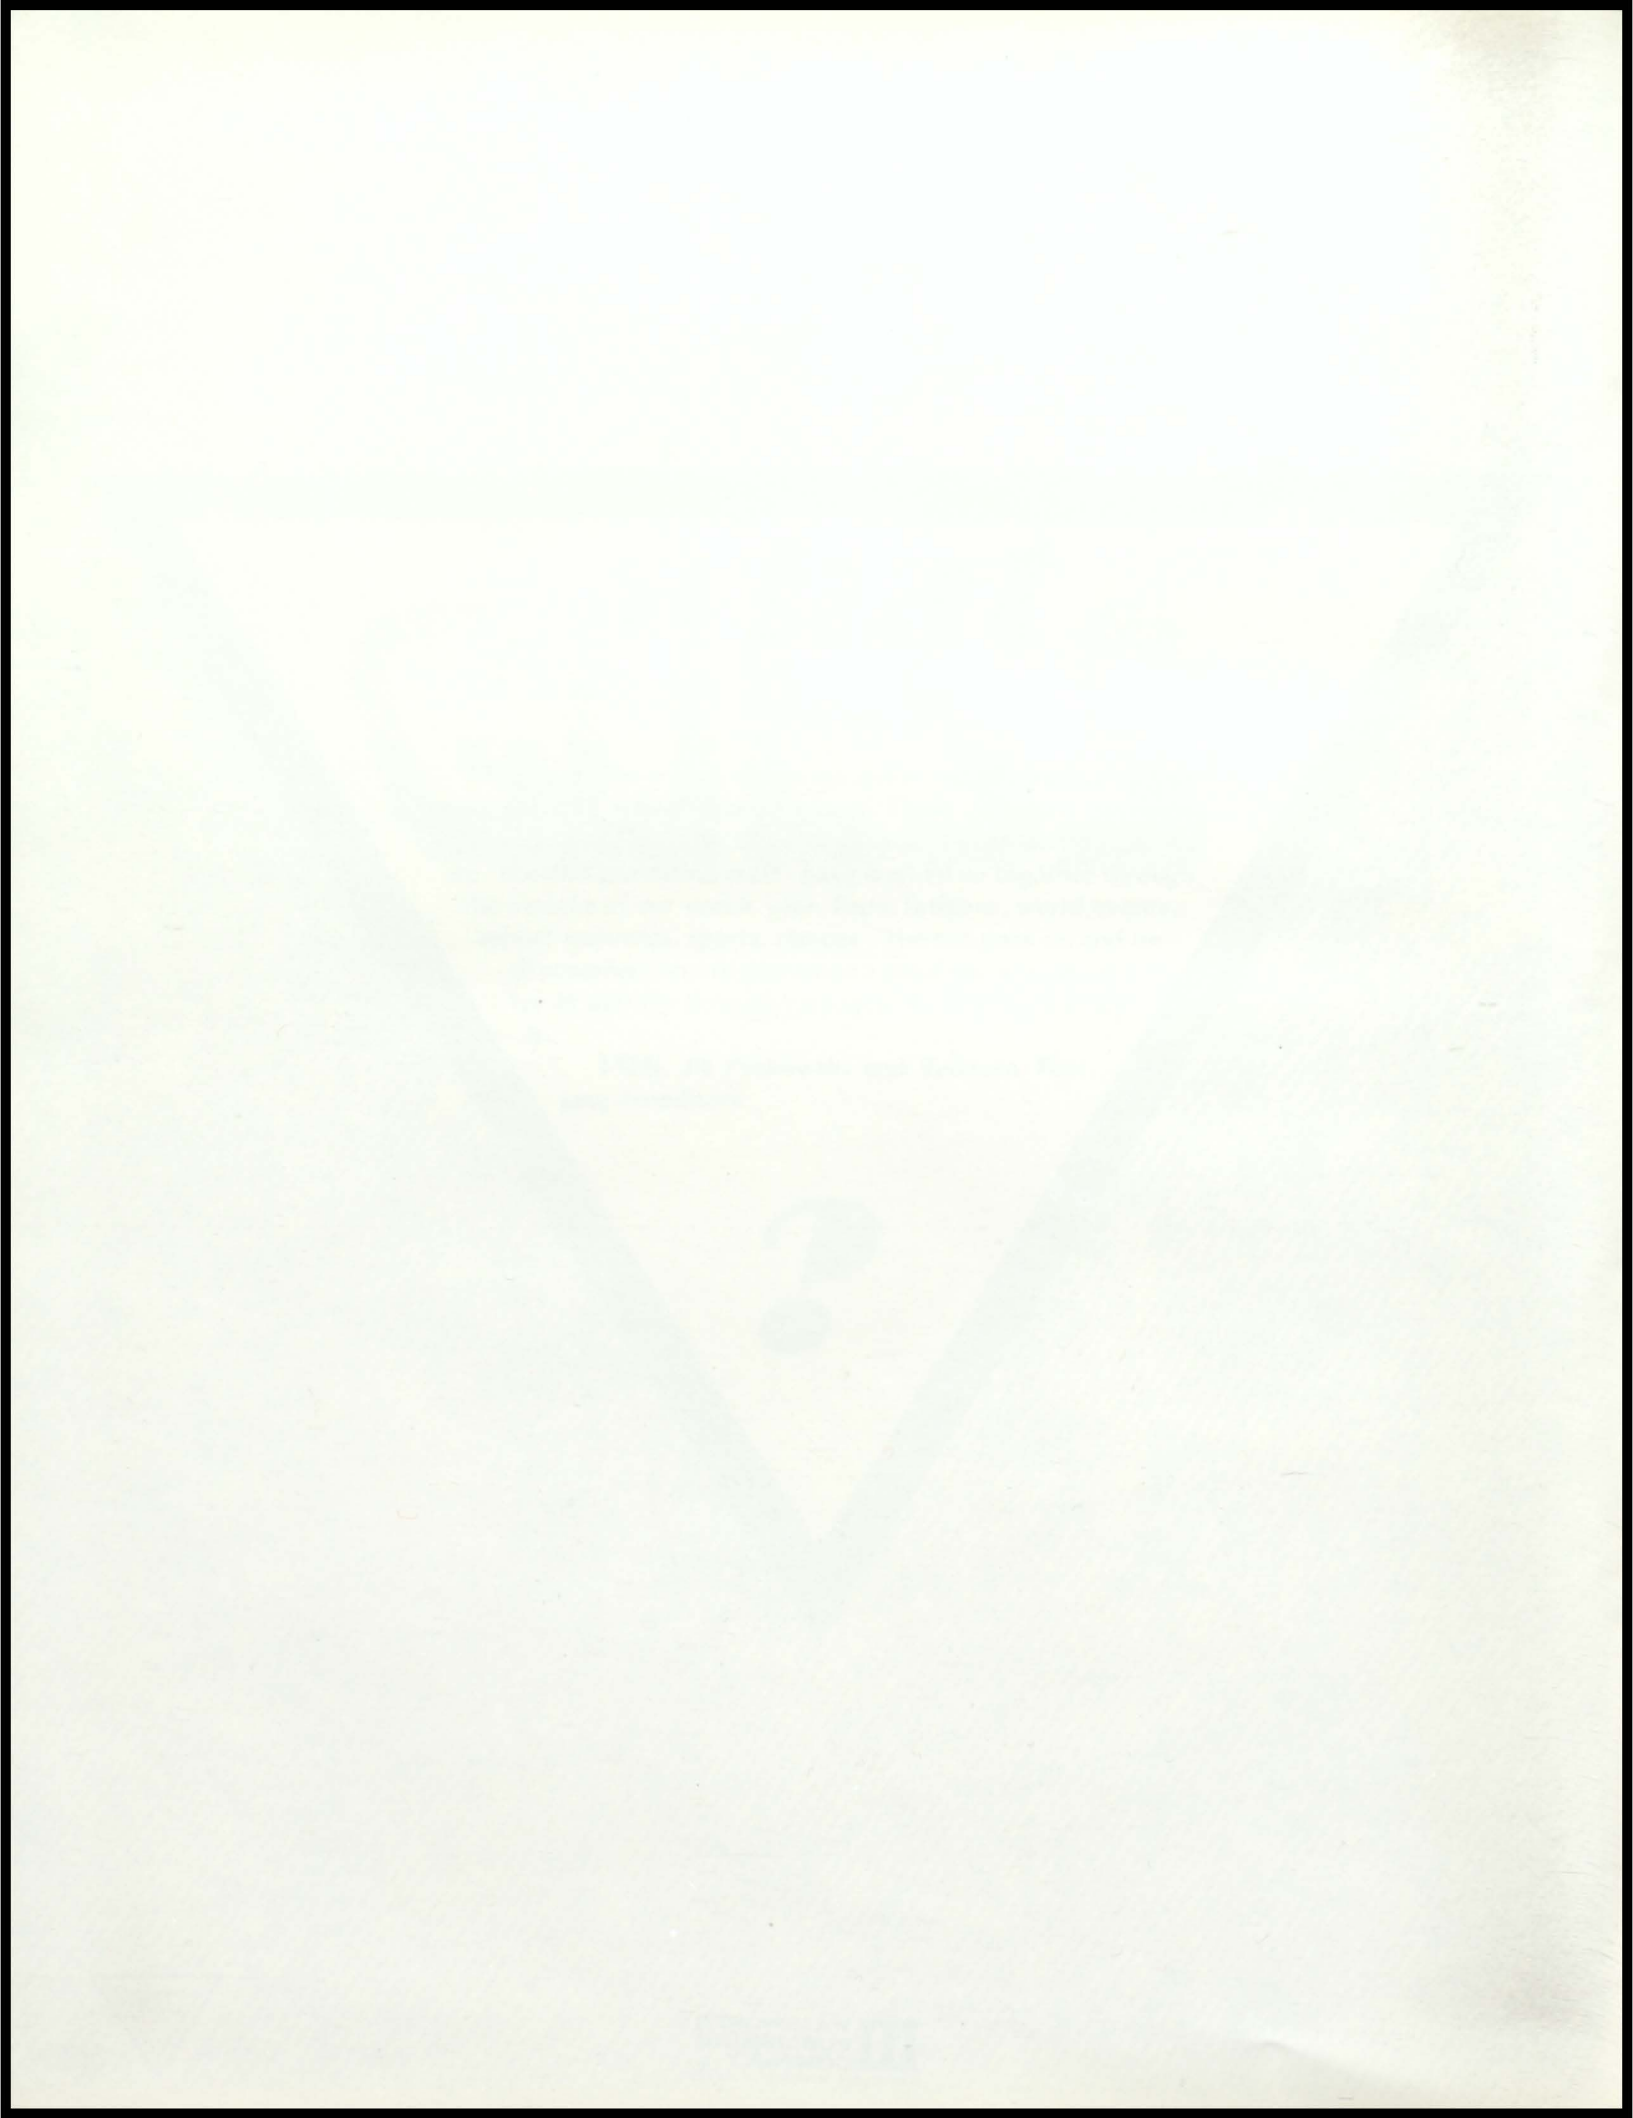

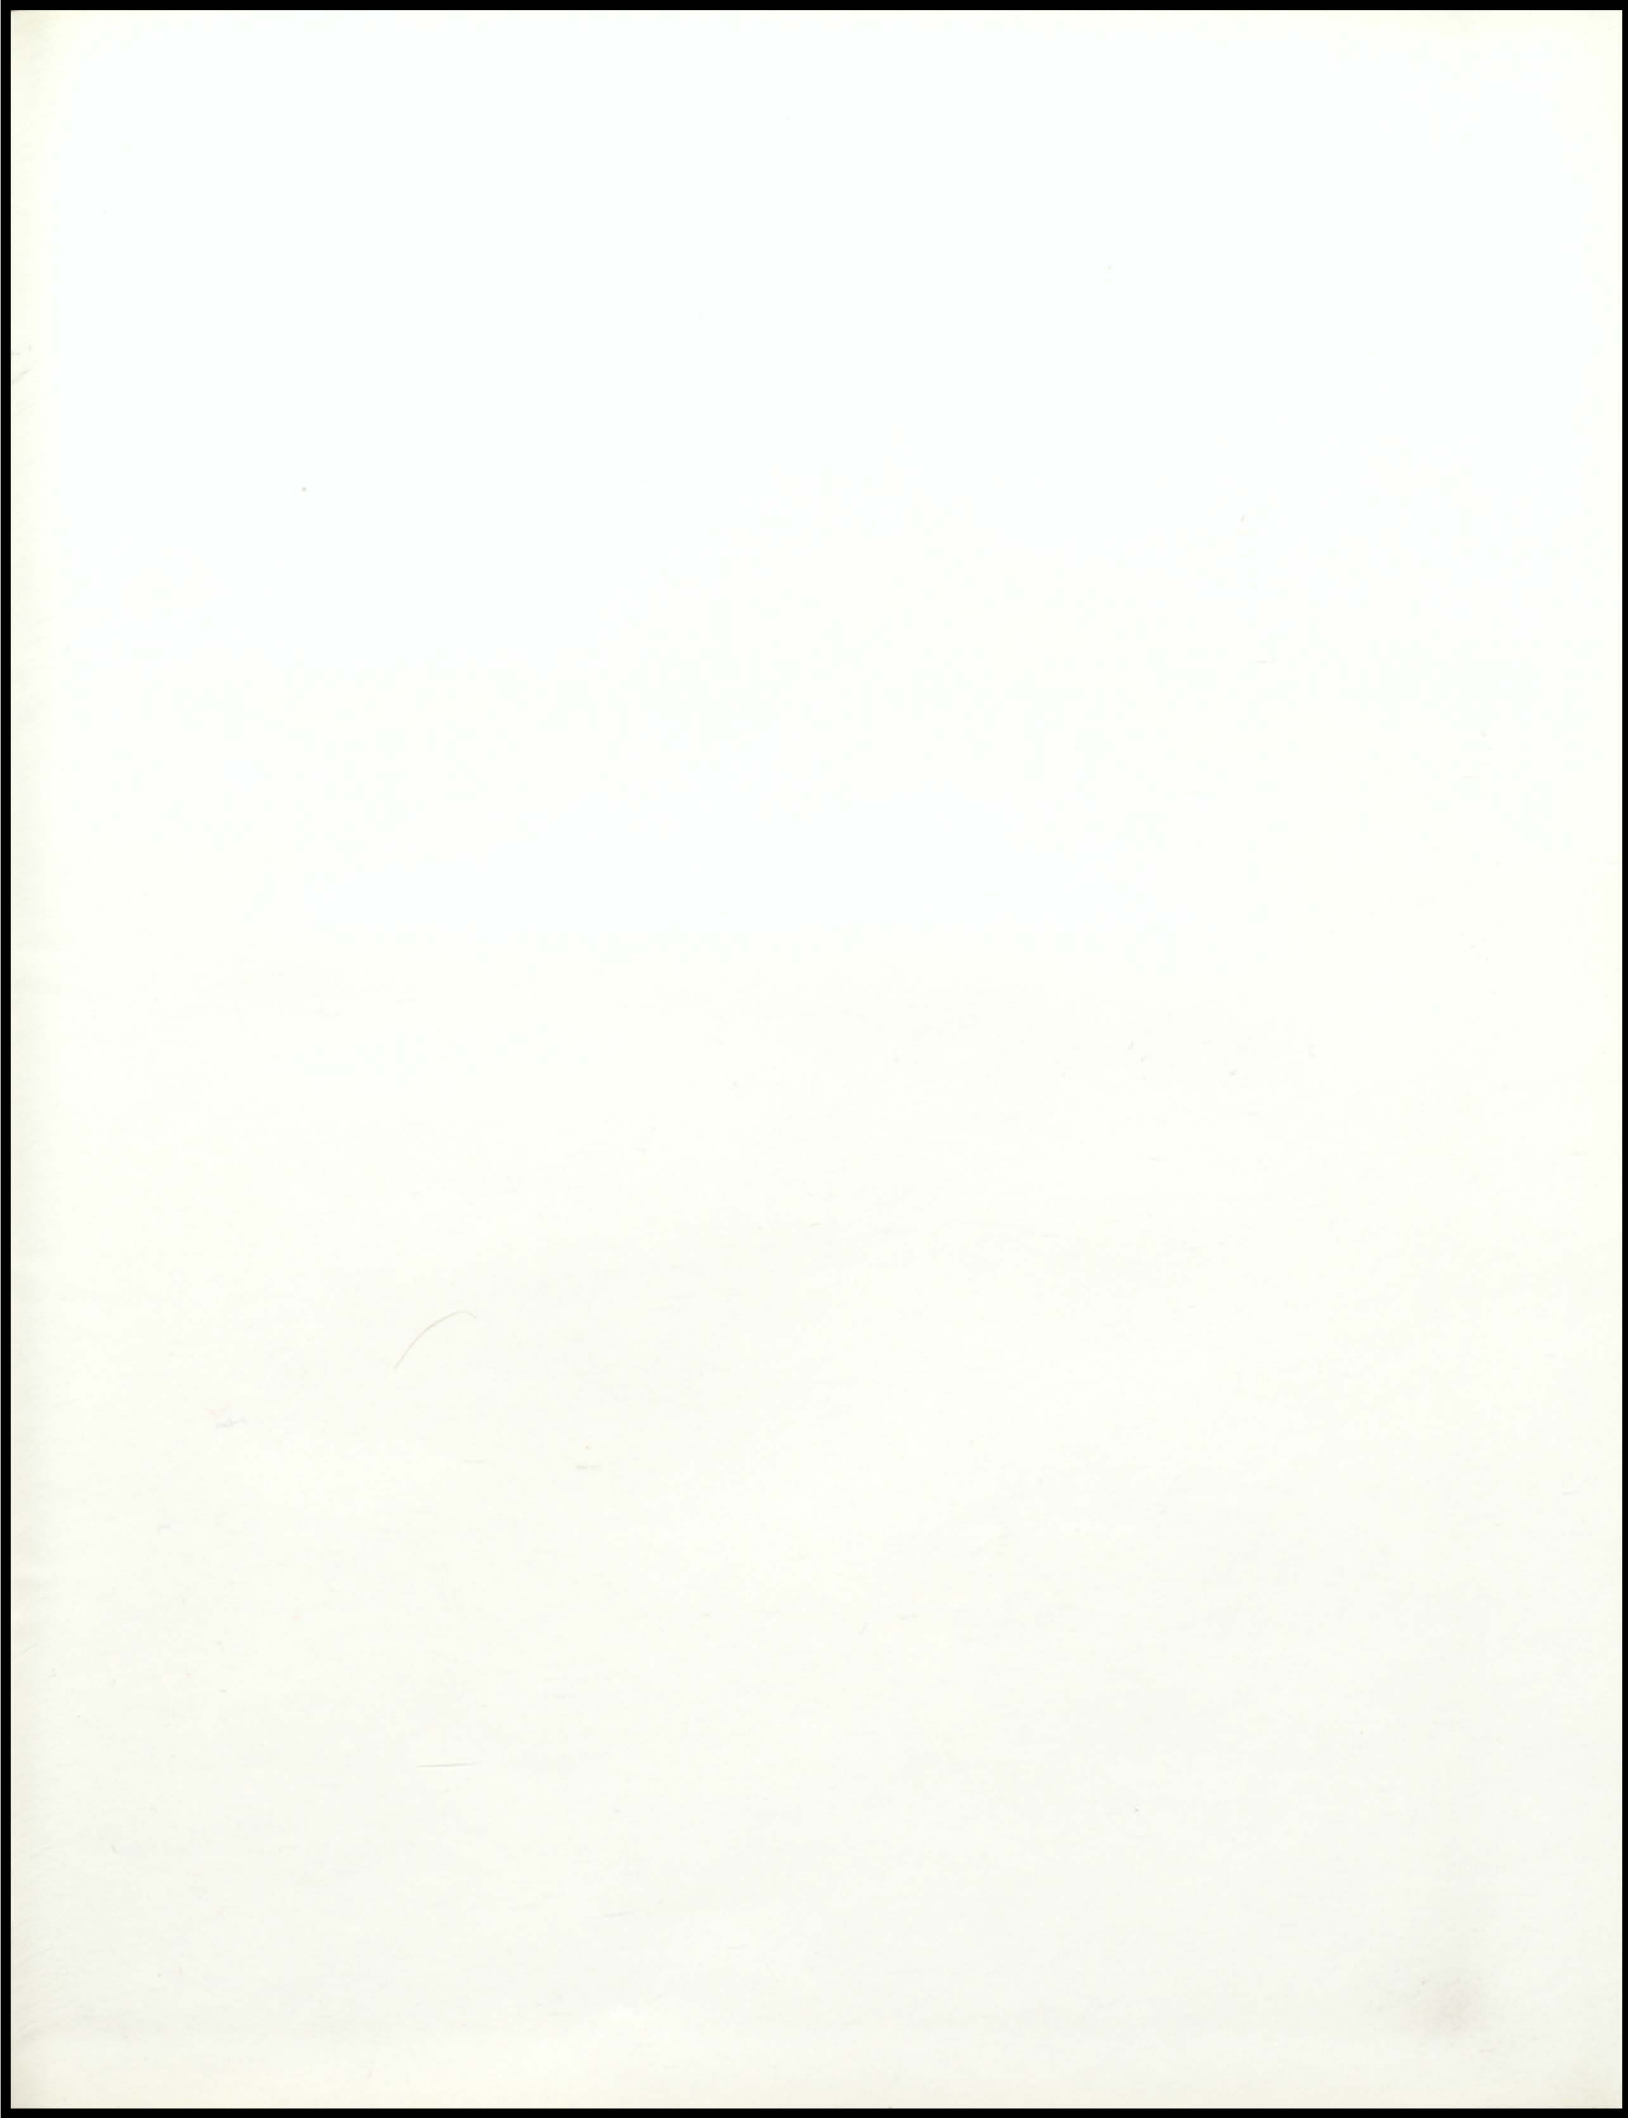

what

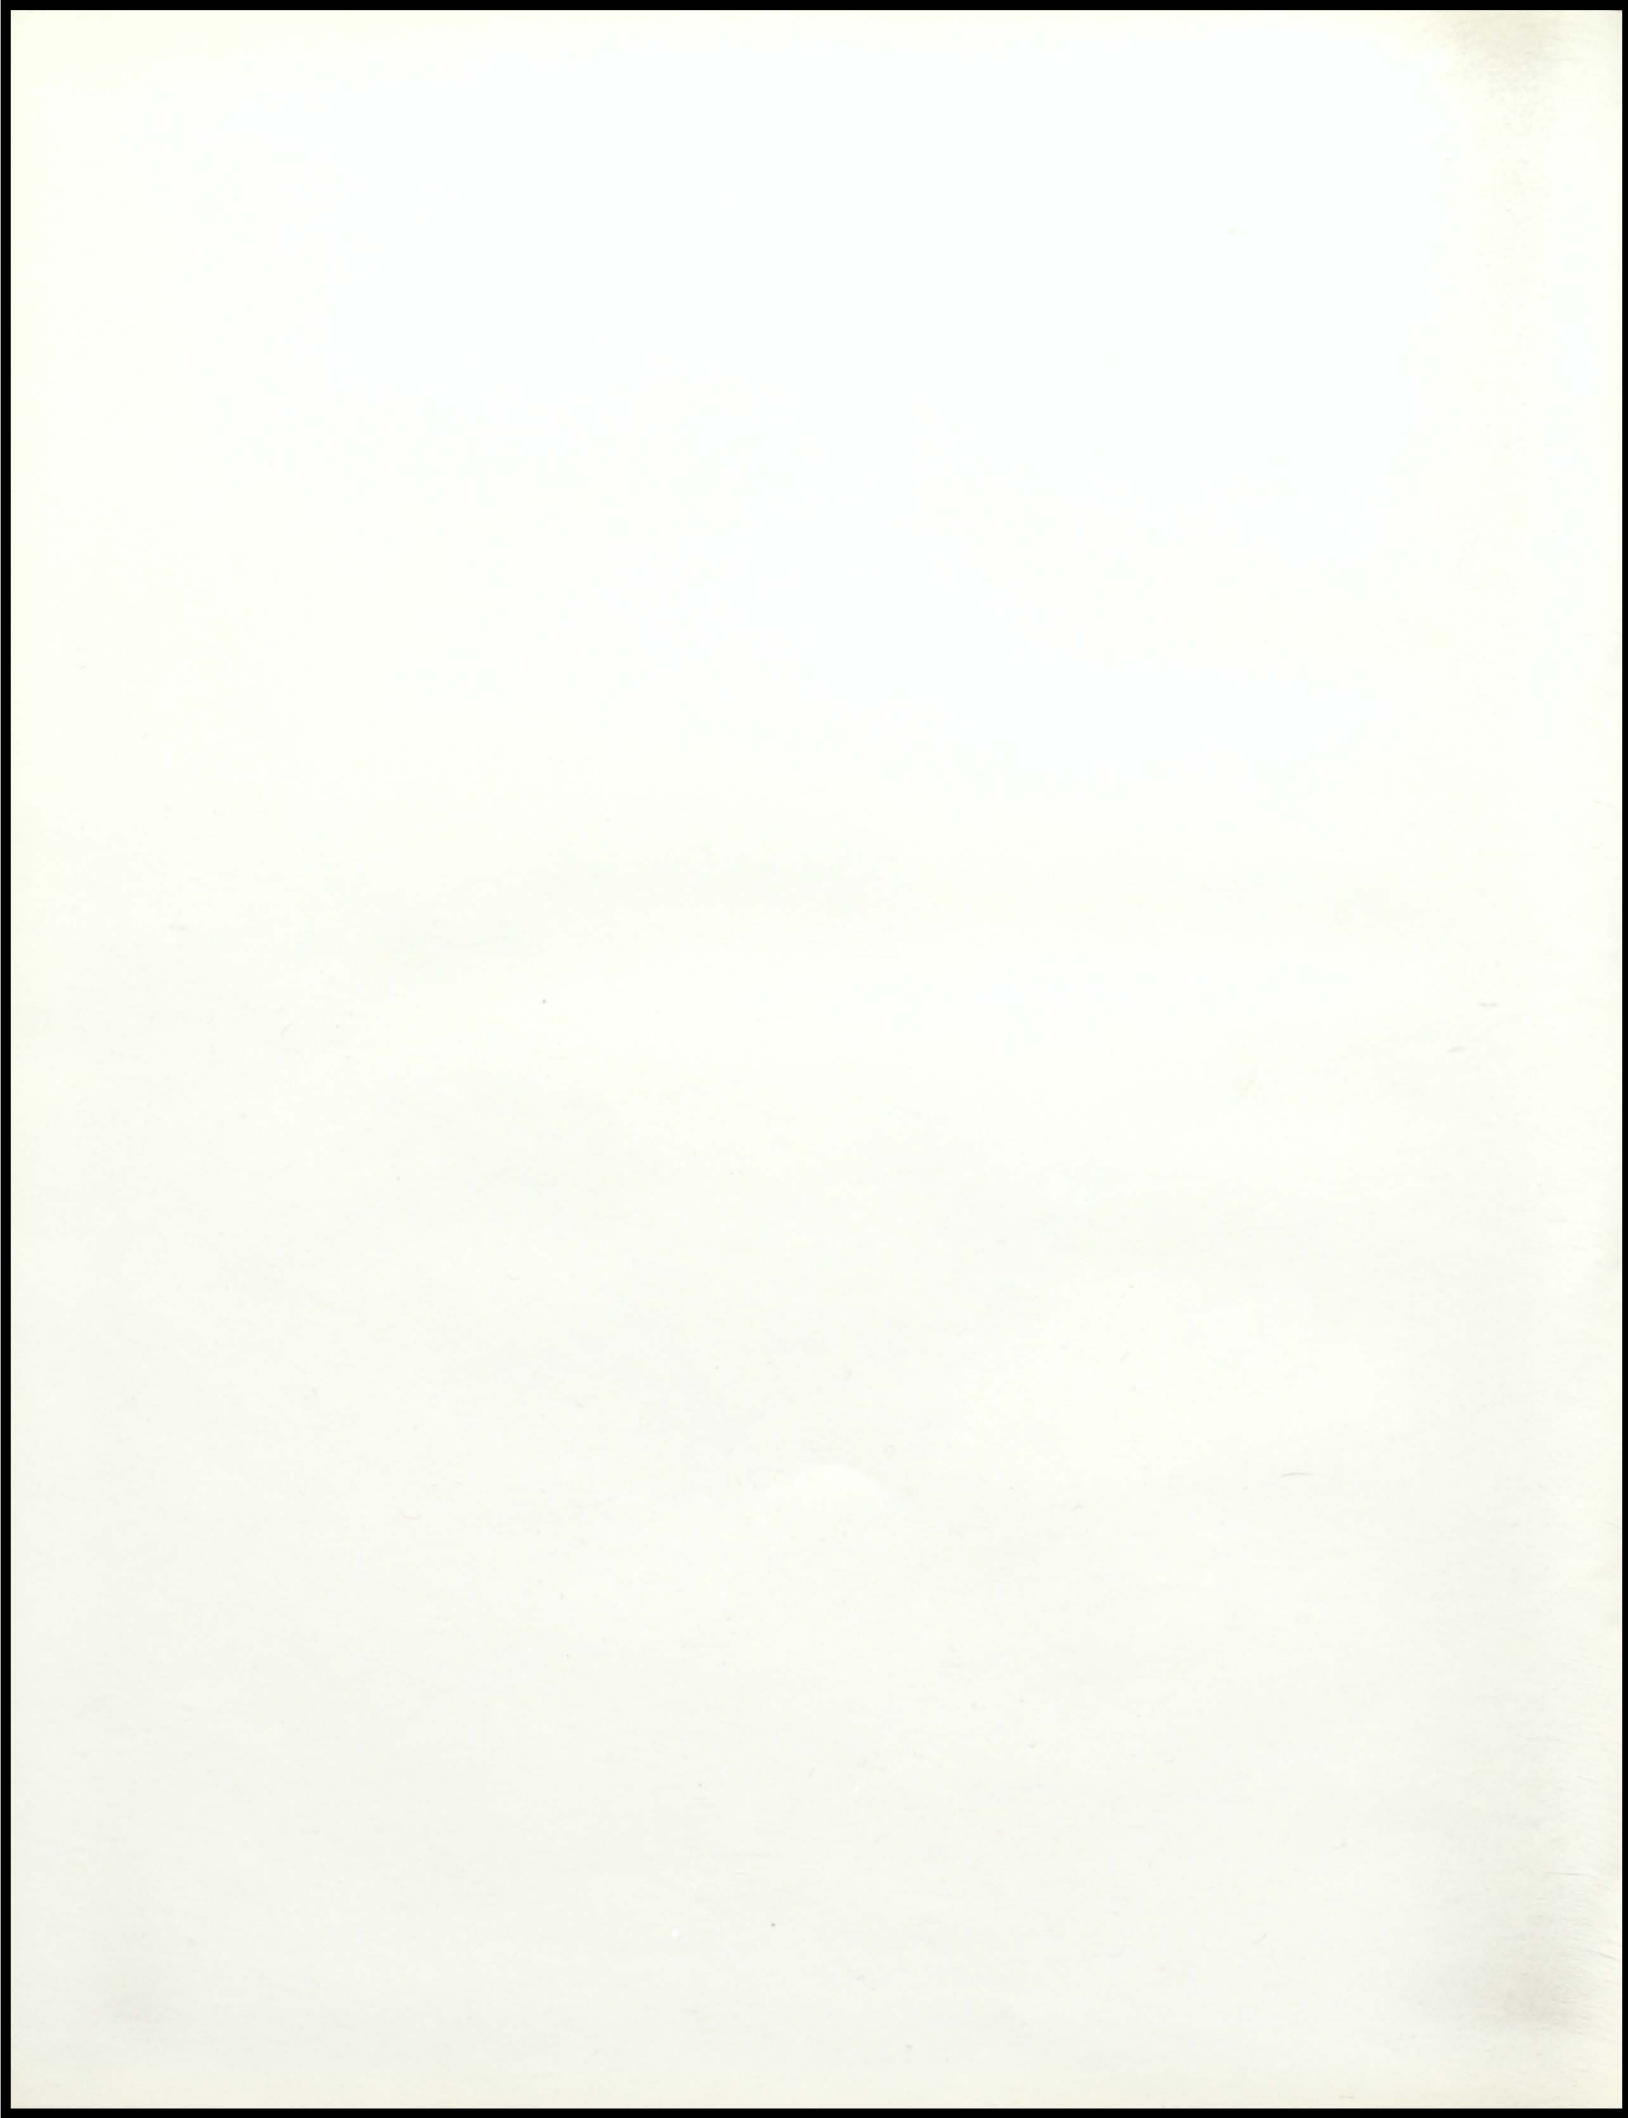

This is it! The answers to all the questions you wanted to know about the 1988 school year at Scotus. These questions have been answered through the pictures, copy, ads, and creative ideas that we - the 1988 journalism staff - have worked on together through the months of our senior year. Fads, fashions, world events, school activities, sports, dances - the list goes on and on - all compiled here to guarantee a good memory (or two) for all who flip through its pages. We hope you enjoy it!
